DOCTOR OUTLINES WORK OF JUNIOR VOLUNTEERS

The award was presented by Mrs. Morison Blake, Pottstown RD 1.

In other action taken at the meeting, Mrs. Alexander Revell The Hill school, conducted an election of officers which resulted in the re-election of the Rev. Edward S. Horn as branch chairman for the second term.

Clearing Trend To Start Today

Pottstown experienced some of the steadiest temperatures in weeks Thursday as cloudy skies and occasional rain kept things cool.

The mercury started at a low of 59 degrees at 9 o'clock Thursday morning and rose only three degrees throughout the rest of the day. It was 62 steadily from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The rain pattern Thursday was sporadic. Rain came in the late morning to the North End, but the line of precipitation was drawn at West street and the streets to the south remained dry.

The southern part of Chester county got a downpour about 2 p. m., but the northern section

INTRA-PARTY TESTS SEEN IN PRIMARY

State Assembly Seat Special Election Is Listed

Primary election battles Tuesday will enliven—and in many cases overshadow the Third Legislative district special election—in a dozen area towns, a Mercury survey shows.

In the special election Charles A. Dasch, vice chairman of the Pottstown Democratic party, will face Edwin G. Holl, a Lansdale businessman. The election was necessitated when Floyd K. Brenninger refused to take his seat in the State Assembly after being re-elected to a fourth successive term last November.

Dasch is in the 25th column, Holl in the 26th on the ballot. Local elections usually take up the first 15 to 20 columns on the Montgomery county ballot, with Democrats holding the top line and Republicans on the second level.

The special election is open to all voters, including non-partisans, Socialists, prohibitionists and other miscellaneously registered voters. The primary bat-

Police Conducting Traffic Count

Pottstown police are making a traffic count at the South Hanover street crossing of the Reading railroad. The survey began Thursday midnight and will continue until midnight Saturday.

The Reading company has requested borough council to approve automatic gates at the crossing. The proposal was defeated on several occasions over the years.

Gremlins Upset Walk-Light At Borough's Main Corner

In passing, you may have missed it, but there's been a crisis at High and Hanover streets the past three days.

The electronically-operated "walk" lights have been on the blink, that is they haven't been blinking.

Well anyway, the "walk" cycle hasn't been coming up when it's supposed to from time to time, and Pottstown pedestrians have proven psychologist Pavlov right.

Accustomed to dashing across the intersection when Hanover street traffic gets a yellow light, the walkers—much to their surprise—have looked up on occasions and seen High street traffic bearing down on them, full speed ahead.

Snafu

Pavlov, a Russian psychologist, experimented with animals. He rang bells when he had his dogs' food ready. Soon, he got the dogs to drool at the sound of a bell — although there was no grub around.

* * *

BECAUSE THE folks who cross High street daily have become used to jumping off with the yellow light against Hanover street traffic, police have experienced a safety problem while Borough Electrician Charles E. Snyder has been fretting over the innards of the complicated controling device.

"They don't even look any more. They have it down to seconds," said one veteran policeman who has watched the behavior of his wards.

"It certainly is dangerous, no question about it," said another policeman.

The worst part—the malfunction has followed no pattern. Every 20 minutes, then every three minutes, then twice in a row it has goofed up.

* * *

WEDNESDAY NIGHT, all the lights in the intersection turned red at the same time, and it was warm beneath some blue serge collars until the traffic was unraveled.

Snyder said he was stymied the first two days. "I thought I'd have it fixed, and then I'd go away and it would have a conniption.

"So I'd work on it some more, change some other relays, and stand and watch it two, maybe three, hours. It would be fine.

"I'd walk away, and it would start skipping the walk signal again."

And a horde of pedestrians, heads down, their eyes cocked to the yellow beam up Hanover street, would stampede into the path of High street traffic—which had a green light.

Restaurateurs Hail X-rays

More than 600 food handlers visited the mobile unit during its two day stay at the borough hall parking lot—bringing full or partial compliance with the ordinance to just shy of the 100 percent mark.

The 617 who took the X-rays Tuesday and Wednesday still have to complete their physical examinations. With the 574 who previously completed both phases of the ordinance, it brought 1191 food handlers into potentional coverage. There are approximately 1200 food handlers in the borough.

George Xanthopolous, owner of the Crystal restaurant, called the free X-rays "a boon to both the employes and the employers. Before it was too inconvenient, too much trouble for the employes to go. Now it is easy."

* * *

PRIOR TO the visit of the mobile unit, sponsored by The Mercury and the State Health department, food handlers spent from 30 minutes to 3 hours getting the X-rays at either Pottstown or Memorial hospital.

"This cut the time to nothing," Xanthopoulos said. "I know all my employes hope that it will be continued every year."

Leona Toole's reaction was typical of the employes. A waitress at Dempsey's diner, High and York streets, she called the program a "fine one—something that should be done every year."

"I know the girls think it is a lot easier and a lot more con-

Lower Pottsgrove Holds Line on Taxes

School directors of Lower Pottsgrove expect to get through the next fiscal year without a tax increase and still carry more than half of the financial load of the Pottsgrove jointure.

Township directors held the real estate levy at the present 46 mills and other taxes at their current levels when they adopted a tentative budget in a special meeting at the Lower Pottsgrove elementary school Thursday night.

Ninety-six percent of the $504,117 budget will go to the jointure for operations, salaries, and financing the new Joint Elementary school and High school.

Payments to the jointure will total $483,000, compared to a tentative jointure budget total of $869,810. The payments include approximately $396,000 for teachers salaries, supplies, books, heating, and $87,000 for financing of school plants of the jointure.

* * *

TOWNSHIP DIRECTORS held the line on the real estate tax even though Jointure Principal Howard Michener based the jointure budget on a 4 mill increase for Lower Pottsgrove. A balance on hand of $55,000 in the township account by the end of June is expected to offset the need of a tax rise. Approximately $40,000 of that was carried over from the last fiscal year.

The 46 mill real estate tax is expected to yield $275,902, and the $15 per capita levy on 2000 taxables will bring in another $30,000. A 100 mill occu-

DA WILL SCAN REPORTS ON BLAKELY CASE

Investigators Submit 'Perfect Crime' Data

The Blakely murder case, slowly shaping into a classic "perfect crime" mystery, will get a thorough review today by Montgomery County District Attorney Harold E. Spencer, in an effort to lend new direction and determination to the investigation.

With time working in favor of the killer, or killers, Spencer's exhaustive evaluation of reports submitted Thursday by authorities returning from a week and a half long probe in Augusta Springs, Va., is expected to be followed by new inquiry plans.

Pottstown Police Sgt. Thomas A. Lawler, County Det. Julius Roehner and Assistant District Attorney Thomas Waters returned to this area Thursday afternoon from the village where many relatives of the victims live.

Lawler, Roehner and Waters were joined by Augusta County

GOOSE RUN ARCH ASKED BY OFFICIAL

Health, Safety Hazards Outlined In Plea

A prominent contractor and member of the planning and zoning commission called on the borough Thursday to arch over Goose run from Wilson street to East street.

Charles I. Stout said the action would serve two purposes—improving health and safety conditions in the area and providing desirable locations for several new homes.

Goose run leaves a culvert at Wilson and Spruce streets then flows across Gay, Logan and Airy streets before entering another culvert at East street. It has been in the news frequently

RITES MARK ASCENSION OF CHRIST

Commandery Worships At St. John's UCC

Pottstown and the area's Christian community solemnly commemorated Ascension Day Thursday, with nearly every Protestant and all Catholic churches conducting services.

Among the highlights was the annual observance by the Nativity Commandery 71, Knights Templar, at St. John's United Church of Christ.

A "Holy Day of Obligation" for Catholics, the Ascension anniversary was celebrated with masses.

Ascension Day marks the ascension of Jesus Christ into heaven, 40 days after his Easter resurrection. It is recorded in the Gospel of St. Luke.

* * *

IN THE St. John's service, the Rev. Paul C. Scheirer's message emphasized the danger of interpreting Christ's ascension as meaning he has gone from the presence of earth.

Homeowners Start Spring Rush to Finish Sidewalks

The Spring building boom is on, as evidenced by the pictures above and the large number of permits issued by the borough. Public Works Director Earl J. Case reported 60 permits for street and curb work since the start of Spring, in addition to the borough's own street program. The permits issued to individuals means an additional 4800 feet of street and 1700 feet of curbing in the borough, Case points out. Meanwhile the borough program moves ahead with blacktopping of Adams street from Jackson street to Jefferson avenue scheduled for today—weather permitting. The project is expected to take four or five working days.

Once that is completed Contractor John Mayes, of Perkasie, will start on Beech street from Hanover to Manatawny street. The project is expected to take two or three days.

THREE NEW directors were elected for a three-year term each. They were: Mrs. Robert Bower, Pottstown, RD 2.; Mrs. Edward Hughes, Pottstown Route 20; and O. Carrington Conger, Jr., Pottstown RD 3. Four directors were re-elected to three-year terms. They were F. William Heilman, 812 Sunnybrook road; Mrs. Edward Hughes, Pottstown Route 20; Matthew S. Santangelo, Pottstown RD 3; and Delaine E. Story, Pottstown Star route.

In addition to the certificate presented to Mrs. Schutz, award pins representing a minimum of 100 hours service per year were given to Mrs. Elmer Erb, Pottstown Route 18, and Mrs. Shandy Hill, 265 Lee avenue, five-year pins; Mrs. Leonard Huff, 1219 Sheep Hill road, and Mrs. Raymond Reid, Spring City, 10-year pins.

During the year, four other Gray Ladies received service recognition. Five-year pins went to Mrs. Morison Blake, Pottstown RD 1, and Mrs. Alfred Miles, 1181 Mulberry street; ten-year pins to Mrs. William E. Mills, 8 Welch court, and Susan Shoemaker, Pottstown Route 20. The awards were presented by Mrs. Alexander Revell, of The Hill school.

Dr. Kenneth W. Prescott, chapter chairman of Junior Red Cross and managing director of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, gave the main address. Speaking of the Junior Red Cross, he said:

"The Junior Red Cross program provides youngsters with an opportunity to become oriented to the needs of others. Too often a child's orientation is self centered because of the sheltered care given at home, church, and school. The Junior Red Cross supplements his education by providing him with an opportunity to serve others."

* * *

DR. PRESCOTT enumerated the several areas in which the Junior Red Cross is active. These included programs in which the youngster makes simple but necessary items used in hospitals, or in disaster areas.

"One of the more important aspects of the JRC work is the international program in which the youngsters engage. The junior members send gifts to children in countries throughout the world," he said.

"This certainly is one of the most rewarding experiences for both the children and those who benefit from their work," Prescott said.

Other guests at the dinner were Hilbert F. Keisker, manager, Southeastern chapter, American Red Cross, Philadelphia; Catherine McCarthy, associate director, field service for the chapter, and Earl Carl, executive director, Family Service of Pottstown. Printed reports were submitted by the chairmen of the various branch services.

Arrangements for the dinner were made by Mrs. Revell, Mrs. Charles Donovan, and Mrs. Raymond Dotterer, 819 North Evans street. The Rev. Horn presided.

A more general rain started falling shortly before 3:30 o'clock and continued intermittently in Pottstown throughout the evening.

in the past because of the rats and mosquitoes that breed there and the danger to children.

Stout, who owns two lots at Logan and Airy streets, said that he has been "after the borough for three years to do something about the conditions there."

"I finally arched over the creek where it crosses my two lots, but the area will never be good for residential development until the entire run is arched over and the gully filled in," he continued.

THE USUALLY stagnant run is at the bottom of a deep divide usually filled with debris. Tangled undergrowth covers the banks. Children and adults in the area report snakes and rats frequent "visitors" during the Summer months.

"The health and safety factors are also important," Stout added. "Despite conditions there children continue using it as a play area and at night the mosquitoes that breed there make it almost impossible to sit outside."

"If the borough would arch over the run and fill in the ravine they would not only be ending the health and safety problems but make several desirable locations available for home construction," he continued.

Conditions last Summer were reported "worse than ever" and several heavy rains brought forth dozens of complaints from area residents about the "horrible stench."

IN ONE two week period two large rats and several snakes were killed by residents along Wilson and Spruce streets, the upper end of the run. One of the rats was shot by a terrified father as it stood less than 10 feet from several of his young children playing in a sandbox.

One woman complained about the rats to Health Officer Benjamin Steele several times. "All he did was brush me off or tell me to sprinkle rat powder on the ground," she claimed.

The problem was temporarily alleviated towards the end of the Summer when the borough posted no dumping signs and cut some of the weeds.

"That doesn't solve anything," Stout claimed. "Let them do the job right and taxes from the new homes will make up for the cost. It will also make the town a much better looking place."

Four Permits Issued In Upper Frederick

Four building permits were issued last month, the Upper Frederick supervisors reported at Thursday night's meeting in the township firehouse. They were valued at $25,250.

The supervisors also paid bills totaling $1460. President Darwin Wadsworth was in charge of the meeting.

Kennedy Takes Homework On Florida Trip

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy flashed by jet Thursday out of the rain of Washington into the sun of the South to spend a long, restful weekend by the sea.

The President did bring along for study papers that will give him a briefing for next week's visit to Canada. And he will have conferences bearing on the visit Monday and Tuesday after he returns to Washington.

* * *

But here in Florida, Kennedy expects to work as little as a president can, play golf every day, loaf around a swimming pool and the beach, "and that's all I have in mind."

This word came to reporters from Kennedy's military aide, Brig. Gen. Chester V. Clifton, who checked with the President aboard the giant Air Force jet. A 25-knot headwind slowed the trip to 2 hours and 12 minutes — a little longer than usual.

* * *

The chief executive attended Ascension Thursday Mass at St. Mathew's Roman Catholic Cathedral in Washington, kept a few appointments at the White House, posed for pictures on the porch of his office, then drove the 14 miles to Andrews Air Force Base for the flight to West Palm Beach Airport.

Mrs. Kennedy stepped out in the rain onto the dripping grass behind the White House to call and wave good-by to daughter Caroline on a balcony.

* * *

For this visit, the President and First Lady are staying at the Palm Beach home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman. The Kennedy family home here is closed temporarily.

While here, Kennedy will keep in direct touch with Washington by special wires and phones. Primarily, he will be eager to get reports on the progress of the negotiations in Geneva for a truce in the Laotian fighting.

Life is easier to take than you'd think; all that is necessary is to accept the impossible, do without the indispensable and bear the intolerable.
—(Kathleen Norris)

Why The Delay?

TO "encourage" businesses to expand and modernize, the Administration has come up with a Rube Goldberg system of tax concessions, while announcing that basic income tax rate reform is necessary but will be put off at least until next year.

The House Ways and Means committee now is hearing witnesses on this year's proposal, which would extend tax "forgiveness" allowances to businesses that spend more than before for new plant and equipment. This plan boils down to dictation by government as to how individuals and corporations shall conduct their businesses.

The Treasury estimates that $1.7 billion in tax breaks would go to businesses that built new facilities. But with the other hand, the Treasury would take back this amount plus $250 million more from businesses by levying new taxes.

Thus, American business is expected to be "stimulated" by a net loss in funds—an incredible supposition.

* * *

Of course, the businessman who could best expand by hiring more salesmen, spending money on promotion, increasing his advertising or marketing a new product, would be hit by new taxes and get none of the tax breaks. Yet, his way of "getting the country moving again" is as good as a new plant—which he may not need. He will be impeded, not helped.

Some businesses, under the Administration plan, undoubtedly would be "stimulated" to spend unwisely, especially as new taxes would diminish the prospect for profit on the new facilities.

Many businesses don't grow, or even shrink, if their product is one in merely steady or declining demand, or if the section in which they are situated is not a growing one. For them, expansion might be folly. Yet, they are presently providing jobs and performing essential services.

This "investment credit" approach to business health is a novel nostrum of no great promise. Hearings are scheduled to be short, and a vote will come quickly.

* * *

Congress would do well to defeat it, and enact real income tax rate reform to accomplish economic growth. This year would be infinitely better for the job than next.

The Herlong-Baker bill for the purpose, already well known to the lawmakers and fully explored, would be the ideal vehicle for the job.

An Odd Nostalgia

WE all know men who pine for their great days in World War II, frightful as it was. They miss the comradeship, the importance of what they were doing and the clear sense of purpose that then pervaded the nation.

But few are so foolish to desire another war.

In Washington these days there seems to be a similar longing for the Great Depression of the 1930s. Never before had bureaucracy been given its head so fully. While the nation slumped, Washington boomed. The "brain trust" for a while had almost carte blanche in reshaping America.

This may account for the latest (at this writing, anyway) proposals from the New Frontier. It might be described as "moving forward to 1932."

* * *

The scheme calls for reviving the old Public Works administration through Government grants to local governments for public facilities.

It calls for a new Civilian Conservation corps to put youths to work in the national parks and forests, where the number of leaves that could be raked is infinite.

There would also be considerable "pump priming" in the form of stepped up spending on purely Federal programs.

The cost is estimated at from half a billion to a billion and a half dollars for the next year alone. This would be added to present estimates of a heavy deficit for that year.

Most of us are happy that the 1930s are history, and cannot share this odd nostalgia for those great days of bureaucratic supremacy.

$100 Question

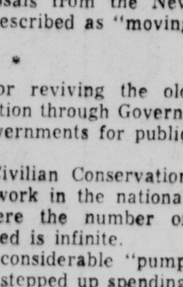

IF Congress adopts the recommended $30 a day limitation on expense accounts for hotel rooms and meals, will there be a reduction on those political $100 a plate dinners?

Urban Renewal a Fooler!

To the Editor: When will the public become educated to the ways of the politicians?

When local spending—as it has in Pottstown—gets too high the people rather would do without than the higher taxes, they invented urban renewal.

It's here. The taxpayer must be alerted to this, for it already has come before council, and without a single vote against, was approved. Voters better wise up!

This urban renewal is a plan to use Federal taxes to pay for local spending, so you have to pay the taxes even if you don't want what they are spent on!

Don't be fooled. Even the Republican party, because of some shortsighted advocates, has fallen for this by endorsing the project. The GOP says it opposes Federal spending this way, but a hypnotist has lulled the politicians into a sleep.

Taxation, yes! Representation, no! That is the way we're being taken, and taken.

Rejoices in Liberal Move

To the Editor: Behind the relatively insignificant article in last week's news, entitled "Church to Use Bulletins for First Time," lay a rather significant reason for these bulletins; and I quote the Rev. William M. Begley, rector of St. Aloysius church, "I welcome these bulletins because they will save time and give us more space for preaching."

As an Evangelical Lutheran pastor, I spent a good bit of time studying and witnessing the Roman Catholic church's theology and institutions in the United States and abroad.

My visit for a week to a Benedictine monastery, as a guest, proved to be a deeply spiritual retreat and a very enlightening experience.

I rejoice with many today, not a few Roman Catholic theologians of the present liberal movement within Roman Catholicism, that there is time being given during the Mass for preaching the Word of God; that Mass is being attempted by some parishes in the vernacular; that the great hymns of Christendom are being taught by venturesome priests, and sung by awakened congregations; that there is a revival of Biblical study and research in Roman Catholic seminaries and institutions of higher learning across the land; and that Roman Catholic theologians are sitting down with Evangelical Lutheran theologians for mutual discussion and attempted understanding.

This is news! Good news!

ANDY WILLIAMS is taking over for Perry Como while Perry vacations, and Patti Page's feelings are bruised. She thinks she should have been given the assignment.

Tony Bennett was enjoined (by the music publisher, Chappell) from singing "Follow Me" during his London engagement at the Pigalle. The song is just a throwaway in "Camelot," but the publishers had the legal right to prevent Tony from singing it — and presumably did so because the show isn't due in England until 1963.

GEORGE KOGEL, co-producer of "Smiling, the Boy Fell Dead," is the off-stage attraction luring Myrna Loy to the Cherry Lane theatre these nights.

When Sam Spiegel says he'll make "Lawrence of Arabia" the biggest and costliest film in motion picture history, he's not kidding. He's had Academy Award Director David Lean on his payroll for six months, just scouting locations.

It had to happen. Now that Anna Maria Alberghetti is a smash hit in "Carnival," some members of the company are circulating the rumor that she's "temperamental backstage" and "difficult to get along with."

But if anyone prints it, they'll all affix their little signatures to a cast and crew affidavit swearing that she is unfailingly gracious, kind and co-operative. It's standard procedure for the lesser players in a show to accuse the leading lady of being temperamental, and equally standard procedure for them to deny it officially if she gets wind of it.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

IRENE B., aged 29, has been married six years.

"Dr. Crane, I am 30 pounds overweight," Irene began. "And I am ashamed of myself.

"On my wedding day I weighed 122, but now it is 152, and that is far too much.

"My husband says it is easy to lose weight, but I've tried to diet several times, yet without success.

"Now I'd like more information about your method for losing 10 pounds in 10 days?"

* * *

DIETING IS really more difficult than breaking the tobacco or the liquor habits. And here's why:

We psychologists have found that it is easier to break off a bad habit suddenly and completely than to taper off gradually.

Thus, the cigaret smoker can quit all at once. The drinker can do likewise. But the dieter can't stop eating entirely, so he must taper off.

That means he still tantalizes himself by taking small portions of his former tempting viands.

But the two major problems in dieting come within the first three days. One of these is purely psychological and consists of giving yourself the elation of quick victories.

That was the strategy in the 24-hour goal of the Alcoholics Anonymous group.

My dehydration (low fluid) diet enables you to lose about four to five pounds the first three days and is thus a great boon to your morale.

Meanwhile, it helps solve the second big problem in dieting, which is to kill your hunger without use of drugs, until your stomach shrinks down to maybe half its previous size.

* * *

You may have two glasses the second and three the third. Thereafter, till the end of the 10 day period, stay on three glasses of total fluids per day.

Meanwhile, women should limit themselves to 800 calories per day, while men may take 1200. You will feel fairly full on this number of calories, if you stick to your low fluid input.

Also, try to avoid liquid with your meals, for drinks stimulate you to eat more. You'll find that doughnuts and sweet rolls lose much of their charm if you don't swig down coffee or milk with each bite.

Without fluids at meal time, you can more easily stay away from such high calorie foods as rolls, pie and cake.

Send for Dr. Crane's booket "Sex Differences Between Men and Women" enclosing 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed return 4c envelope.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: Emmy, is beginning to grow up. She celebrates her 13th birthday Tuesday an event which predictably will take on the piquantly awkward air of any 13 year old young lady's birthday. Emmy is, of course, only a statuette, but she is, nonethe less, the daughter of the entire television industry and as such merits at least the interest, perhaps even the respect, of both the industry and its viewers.

This year's Emmy Awards telecast is supposed to be freighted with as much entertainment as possible, although how they're going to get it all in, along with some 25 awards and 25 thank-you speeches is going to be a problem all by itself.

I am particularly looking forward to a satirical song-and-dance number to be performed by the unlikely trio Lola Albright, Amanda Blake and Dorothy Provine — to bill them alphabetically and, thus safely. Any one of the three is quite capable of slugging either or both her partners right in the eye.

* * *

AS A volumnist, it is practically my duty to predict the winners. I don't know why it's my duty, but people seem to expect it every year at along about this time. Probably because they relish the opportunity of pointing the finger at me the morning after the awards and crowing about how they guessed more winners than I did. But I'll go along with the little game. Here, then, are some of the more likely winners maybe:

Outstanding program achievement in the field of humor: "The Flintstones.

Outstanding program achievement in the field of news: "Eyewitness to History."

* * *

OUTSTANDING SINGLE performance by an actor in a leading role: Ed Wynn, "The Man In The Funny Suit."

Outstanding single performance by an actress in a leading role: Elizabeth Montgomery, "The Rusty Heller Story" from "The Untouchables."

I also pick, courageously, if not intelligently, "MacBeth" to be named program of the year; Dinah Shore to nudge out Fred Astaire for outstanding performance in a variety or musical program or series; and Abby Dalton of "Hennesey" to win the supporting actor or actress award for a series.

You are now allowed to clip this column, pin it to your calendar and nail me with it Wednesday. Best nailing job gets a brand new hammer for a prize.

Interpreting The News

African Nations Aim At Divergent Goals

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Two meetings have been going on in Africa this week which are closely connected with major forces at work in that politically emerging continent.

In Monrovia, Liberia, a country long closely associated with the United States, representatives of a score of new countries sought means to offset a tendency toward Balkanization resulting from demarcation lines produced through colonialization and its sudden end.

* * *

Communications and, in many cases, divorcement of economic concentrations from their natural hinterlands, represent problems for these countries which can only be answered through political cooperation. But they are looking more toward cooperation than toward political union. They have agreed to respect each other's sovereignty and to oppose Ghana's federalist and expansionist ideas.

* * *

In Cairo, capital of a country so different that it is frequently not considered African at all, President Toure of Guinea, who along with Nkrumah of Ghana seeks to carry many of the neighboring countries into a federation which Mali already has joined, conferred with President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Toure talks of making the U.A.R. and other Arab republics African again as a part of his and Nkrumah's federation, forming an economic magnet for all the former British and French states.

* * *

Nasser, of course, isn't interested in that, but wants Toure to help him and Tito of Yugoslavia in organizing a political bloc of nations uncommitted in the cold war.

The minister in charge of Mali's three-year plan of economic development has naively revealed one of the prime motives—in addition, of course, to the lures of personal power which motivate them all.

* * *

Mali is getting economic aid from Ghana, the Communist bloc, Western Europe, Britain and the United States.

"Competition between the great powers will help us in realizing our plans," said Minister Mamadou Awe.

* * *

He could learn things from Nasser and Tito about how to play that game. But Toure's Guinea is another matter. He has gone so far with the Soviet Union that Guinea's economic independence is threatened, and without that there is little inducement for Western governments or business interests to play the game.

Amid this log-rolling, the efforts of Nigeria, Liberia, the Ivory Coast, Tunisia and other members of the French Community to invite foreign aid through an Operation Bootstrap represents a highly contrasting force.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Pottstown Inventor . . . Improvements Here . . .

★ PATENTED — An ingenious safety device for use on circular blade, power saws was patented by a 62 year old Doehler Jarvis diemaker and will go on the market early in June. The inventor is Alfred J. Wilson Sr. 937 North Evans street. Wilson devised the safety device in his after-work hours the past year and a half, and will market it under the trade name of a firm he founded, the Alson Manufacturing company. Home office, sales headquarters and workshops of the infant firm will be Wilson's home. The device will eliminate the danger of the do it yourselfer's hand slipping into the spinning blades of power saws. Already in use in the vocational workshops of Pottstown Senior High school, the product will be distributed by several large power tool firms in the near future. Castings were made by Wilson at Doehler's and are aluminum.

* * *

NURSERY — Pottstown parents looking around for a good place to start their toddler's pre-school training will note the opening of a day nursery on North Hanover street opposite the Linden apartments June 1. The nursery, located on the west side of the thoroughfare between Prospect and Grace streets, will occupy two converted stores in the new Merion shopping center, opened by John J. Cione, 49 West Fifth street, the past Oct. 1 Two couples with three children each will run the school. They are Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Gulotta and Mr. and Mrs. William D. Lovin, all of 949 Queen street. The Lovins, who came to the borough one year ago from their native Greensboro, N. C., will exercise some of their Southern hospitality in greeting children from 3 to 8 who will be admitted to the school. Plans also are underway to extend the facilities of the new school to a third converted store in the Fall.

* * *

★ PURCHASE — Figures are the business of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Knopp, 1078 Park court. For Mrs. Knopp, the figures are those of women who patronize Marjorie's Slenderizing Salon, 388 North Charlotte street, an establishment which has become somewhat of a local institution for local females. Mrs. Knopp operated the studio the past two years, and figuratively speaking, handled things so well, she announced purchase of the building. It figures, then, that her husband will take a hand in the venture, as he frequently encounters figures in his work as a building contractor. The Knopps are figuring on leasing the second story apartment above the salon, which currently is the residence of John J. Kohler. Kohler, in turn will vacate to move to his new home at North Evans and Mervine, which was built by Elmer L. Erb, Ringing Hill, Pottstown Route 18 contractor. The new Kohler home, just over the borough line in Upper Pottsgrove township, is a colonial style stone rancher, has six rooms and bath and sports a breezeway and two car garage. And figuring it all out saleswise was realtor Richard H. Thompson, 43 High street.

CHANGEOVER — Ralph H. "Bud" Harp, 716 Willow street, owner of Harp's Taxi service, became one of the first taxi service operators in the East to take a big step toward revolutionizing taxi operation when he signed an invoice in his 18 South Hanover street office. The plain slip of paper was proof he had received a 1961 Diesel powered, four cylinder cab. This taxi, a great departure from the usual cabs, was among the first dozen in operation in Pennsylvania (the remainder is Philadelphia) and one of the first thousand of the production lines of Chrysler corporation. Why did Harp take the big step? He said the beating his 12 conventional cabs took the past Winter put him on the lookout for any kind of improvement, as operation of standard models threatened to put his business on a marginal basis. So when he heard of the potentials of the new diesels, he put in his order. . . .

* * *

★ HARP SAID the greatest advantage of the diesel cab engine would be economy. Although there is relatively little savings per gallon of gas, the mileage and maintenance of the engine will be considerably lower. First, a diesel engine eliminates troublessome spark plugs. A jet is used to spray the gas into the combustion chamber. Second, the Diesel engine requires only minimal overhauling about every 50,000 miles. Earlier this year, a similar Diesel vehicle made the trip from New York to San Francisco on 230 gallons of fuel without overhauling. Then, the Diesel's higher compression ratio will allow conservation of fuel in stop and start driving. Harp said the combination of lower maintenance and better mileage, especially in the face of the recent gas tax hike, proved too strong an inducement to resist. He said he won't know what the mileage per gallon of fuel will be until after road testing, but reported in other cities it ran as high as 45 miles per gallon. He expected to put the revolutionary taxi in service in about two weeks.

MEDIATION IS PROPOSED BY CANADA

United States-Cuba Differences At Stake

FOREIGN MINISTER OFFERS SERVICES

GENEVA (AP) — Canada's foreign minister said Thursday his country is ready to mediate between the United States and Cuba when the dust settles over that bitter feud.

Howard C. Green discussed the Cuban situation with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk in Oslo Tuesday. He indicated Mexico and Brazil also are interested in placing their good offices at the disposal of Washington and Havana.

* * *

The foreign minister added Canada, with British encouragement, is thinking of joining the Organization of American States in the hope of playing a more active role in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere.

Green, in an interview, ranged over present and future Canadian policies on many big issues of world affairs—including Laos, Angola, relations with Red China, and disarmament.

* * *

In particular he called for an early embargo on the supply of armaments and other military supplies in Laos in order to reinforce the shaky truce. He said this probably would require a quick agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union—currently the main suppliers of the rival Laotian factions — if the International Control Commission in the kingdom is to be helped in its task. Canada is a member of that commission, along with India and Poland.

During private sessions, Green criticized the United States for its publicly stated unwillingness to negotiate with the regime of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. But he also expressed concern at the ever-developing pro-Soviet orientation of Cuba.

"The more Cuba is pushed the greater becomes her reliance on the Soviet bloc," he said. "Of course Canada is further away from Cuba than the United States and so it's easier for us to seem more dispassionate. But we would hope to be able to solve this problem when the situation slows down and eases a bit."

* * *

In the NATO council, Green had expressed the view there were several nationalist — rather than Communist—elements in the Cuban revolution, and certain social changes which have taken place there should not be reversed. He urged the United States to accept the principle of letting Cubans choose their own form of government. Outside interference would do more harm than good, he said.

Morton Opposes Laos Approach

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — "We must face the fact that Laos is down the drain," says Thruston B. Morton, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Morton said Wednesday night the royal Laotians were "a happy people with no real desire to fight" and observed that the situation in that country was a "difficult thing for this and past administrations."

* * *

However, he criticized President Kennedy's Democratic administration for putting Laos "within the United States' defense perimeter."

Morton made his remarks at a news conference preceding a GOP fund-raising rally.

At the rally, he said the Republican party was "on the go in Michigan and the nation." He outlined what he called "four musts for future GOP organizations." They were: Expand and develop issues, recruit able candidates, spur party growth on the precinct level, and adequate financial support.

TRADITIONAL OBSERVANCE—Leaders of the Knights Templar, Nativity Commandery 71, lead the processional into St. John's United Church of Christ Thursday night during special Ascension Day services. In the foreground is Ernest Hurter, Commander. Behind Hurter, to the right, is Llewellyn Mills, Generalissimo, and Francis Peterman, captain general. The Masonic order observe Ascension Day as a part of their tradition, dating back to the Crusades.

Chief Outlines Patrol Parade Traffic Schedule

Motorists attention. Tomorrow is the day of the big safety patrol parade and show. If you want to save yourself and the police a lot of traffic headaches, follow these directions:

There will be no parking on North Franklin street, from High street north to Pottstown Junior High school, after 8 a.m. today.

Police Chief Harold E. Hahn urges residents to move their cars early. If the street is clear, it will be cleaned. Ordinarily, the street is never cleaned because there are no parking restrictions.

To get to the spectacular at Franklin field, east end residents and drivers from east of town are asked to use North Keim street and Jackson street to the Adams street entrance to the parking lots at the new High school. Parking is free.

* * *

SPECTATORS motoring from the west of town are asked to go east on Wilson street — a through street from Farmington avenue to Adams street; use the Washington street entrance to the High school parking lot.

Chief Hahn pointed out that if these directions are followed, few—if any—tieups will result, and spectators will be able to reach the Franklin field show without going through downtown traffic jams.

The parade will begin at 9 a.m. at High and Manatawny streets, and go east to Franklin street, then north on Franklin street to Franklin field.

Both High and Franklin streets will be blocked to traffic.

rather than a continuation of present circumstances — "centering our attention on gadgets that the advertisers tell us we need to be happy."

He added that the same holds true on community, national and worldwide levels.

The Rev. Richard Hoffert, speaking to his Grace Lutheran church congregation at vesper services, pointed out that the ascension is a completion of the work of redemption in Jesus Christ.

* * *

THAT LIKE as Christ ascended, we too, in a resurrected body, shall ascend, and our hopes and aspirations are in him, through personal faith."

The Knights Templar annually observe Ascension Day as an obligation of their Christian creed. The Masonic order descends from the Christian knights fighting in the Crusades for the redemption of the Holy Lands.

The Knights, garbed in traditional uniform, joined the processional at the St. John's services. The church of the commander each year is the scene of their pagentry.

Holy Communion was celebrated at 9 a.m. in Grace Lutheran church, and at 10 a.m. in Christ Episcopal church. The extinguishing of the Paschal candle for the last time was part of the Grace services.

The candle was lit Easter Sunday and relighted at each Sunday worship service since then. The final extinguishing symbolizes Christ's departure from earth. The Paschal candle also plays a vital part in Catholic services.

All Catholic pupils were off from their studies. The Feast of Our Lord's Ascension is one of the six great feast days celebrated by the Catholic church.

Science Fair Wizards Plan Their Careers

Often it's just natural curiosity at an early age or a parent, sometimes it's a newspaper or magazine article but most often it's a teacher, say the high school students competing in the 12th annual National Science Fair. They are authorities because 90 per cent of them plan to go on to scientific careers.

"A good teacher can make science come alive," says Jim Brocker of Temple, Tex., a husky 18-year-old who is in the national science competition for the second time.

"When I was in the 9th grade, I had a general science teacher who really fired me up. From then on I could think of nothing else for a career," says Jim. A future physicist, Jim displays a working rocket similar to the one he sent soaring 1,700 feet to test different fuels.

Bardwell Moss, 16, a sophomore from Grand Junction, Colo., credits a 6th-grade science teacher for starting him toward a physics career. The son of an FBI agent, he shows how a gyroscope stabilizes a boat.

W. Leonard Pickard, 15, of Atlanta picked up a teacher's astronomy book when he was 9. He plans to become a research nuclear-astrophysicist and won his local science fair with a study of total body irradiation.

Surprisingly, a small number of the 385 regional finalists who come from 45 states and five other countries have parents who are scientists but parental encouragement is evident.

Keith Plossel, 16, of West Springfield, Mass., who exhibits direct conversion of heat to electricity by magnetohydrodynamics, worked with his father on spare-time projects around the house. Ronald Sakimura, 15, of Honolulu, who shows some nematode-trapping fungi, became fascinated with plant life in numerous hiking trips with his father into the forests of Oahu.

Ladd says he was spurred by watching "Mr. Wizard."

Queen Elizabeth Is Hostess to 6500

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II, just back from an official visit to Italy, was hostess at London's biggest social event Thursday.

She entertained 6,500 guests at a Buckingham Palace garden party, smiling bravely through hundreds of informal presentations and thousands of curtsies and bows.

Her dress of gold-colored heavy silk shantung, with a matching hat of petals and feathers, glittered in brilliant sunshine.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, a veteran at such affairs, was prepared for the sun. She carried a white parasol, the only one visible among the colorfully attired women.

BEATING THE HEAT IN LAOS—A Royal Laotian soldier and his family find a cool spot for lunch under a C-47 tail section in Luang Prabang, the royal capital.

Kennedy Asks War on Juvenile Delinquency

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Congress Thursday to declare a five-year federal war on juvenile delinquency. He said offenses by youth "diminish the strength and the vitality of our nation."

The President's program, sent to Congress in a bill, would cost $10 million the first year.

Primarily, Kennedy said, his legislation would help "those dedicated persons in local communities throughout the nation who are striving in many ways to create social conditions" that choke off juvenile delinquency.

* * *

The bill's specific provisions:

1. Grants to states, communities, agencies and institutions for projects aimed at preventing juvenile delinquency. These projects would be experimental ones demonstrating and evaluating techniques for controlling delinquency or treating offenders. The techniques, if proven useful, then would be applied throughout the country.

2. Grants to train probation officers, police, social workers, institutional house parents, youth gang workers and others in the field.

3. Federal technical assistance and instruction to states, communities, agencies and institutions fighting juvenile delinquency.

Besides sending his bill to Congress, Kennedy created a President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime. It is comprised of Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

* * *

The President also appointed David L. Hackett, a former amateur hockey player and now special assistant to the attorney general as executive director of the committee.

The committee was asked to make recommendations from time to time to the President and federal agencies on measures needed to fight juvenile delinquency. Kennedy also set up a citizens advisory council to assist the committee.

In his message to Congress, Kennedy said he has received reports indicating "an increase in the amount of juvenile delinquency in both urban and rural communities."

"This delinquency seems to occur most often among school dropouts and unemployed youth faced with limited opportunities and from broken families," he continued.

* * *

The President said, "We must undertake a program integrating specific remedies into a total attack upon the prevention and control of youth offenders."

Kennedy also relayed to Congress a letter he had received from Ribicoff covering the proposed legislation. Ribicoff's department drafted the legislation.

In the letter, Ribicoff said, "Since 1948, court cases and juvenile arrests have more than doubled while the population of our young people has increased by less than one-half."

The secretary quoted the FBI as reporting that half the country's burglary and larceny arrests and two-thirds of its auto theft arrests in 1959 involved persons under 18 years of age.

Witness Says Eichmann Was Leader of Pogroms

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann swept Berlin clean of Jews over objections of army and industry clamoring for manpower in the midst of war, a witness testified Thursday.

By document and testimony, the prosecution strove to show that the Gestapo colonel on trial for his life was the power behind the pogroms that shook Europe in the wake of the Nazi conquest.

* * *

The story of the roundup of 80,000 Jews in the German capital came from Hildegard Henschel, who with her husband escaped from the gas chambers only because the Soviet army captured Theresienstadt camp in Czechoslovakie in 1945.

She said her husband, Moritz, was spared from early arrest only because as leader of Berlin's Jewish community he could direct Jewish affairs. Henschel was called repeatedly to Eichmann's office after the roundup for the death camps of Eastern Europe began in October 1941, she testified.

* * *

Thousands of Jews were moved out by train and truck to the East, guarded by SS (elite guard) troops, who looted the prisoners of valuables, Mrs. Henschel said.

By early 1943, only a few thousand Jewish workers considered vital to the war effort remained in Berlin. Then, over objections of the army and industrial leaders, Gestapo agents ranged through factories "took out 8,000 Jews and sent them to the East," Mrs. Henschel said.

* * *

In June 1943, she, her husband and 300 bedridden patients of the Jewish hospital were put aboard a train to Theresidenstadt, she testified. Her husband died in Israel a year after the Russians liberated the Jews in the camp.

Once in his pursuit of Jews for the gas chambers Eichmann paused to spare a prospective victim, one document disclosed.

Assistant prosecutor Gavriel Bach produced the document showing that Eichmann ordered that a 102-year-old Jewess "may remain in Denmark" thus avoiding deportation to extermination camps.

* * *

But this was the only break in documentary evidence portraying Eichmann as the archexecutor of Jewish extermination.

Bach quoted an order from Eichmann as ruling that Norwegian "Jews who have received Swedish citizenship at the very last moment should not be spared in Norway."

Another letter, which Bach said Eichmann admitted he dictated, complained that the attitude of the populace in Germany's Axis partner, Italy, "endangered the final solution of the Jewish problem in Europe."

* * *

A letter from the Nazi Foreign Ministry informed Eichmann that the Vatican was highly concerned about Nazi anti-Jewish measures in Italy.

Bach summoned to the stand Hulda Cassuto Campagnano, Italian-born Israeli citizen, who testified the Nazi pogroms continued in Italy despite the Vatican intervention.

Mrs. Campagnano told of the anti-Jewish terror wave mounted by the Nazis when they took over Italy.

* * *

The roundup of 8,000 Roman Jews was ordered. They were to be sent to Mauthausen in Austria as "hostages." Gestapo files used a different word—"liquidated."

Mrs. Campagnano lost her husband and her brother. But she saved her children.

"All along the way, I met kindness," she said. "Every Italian Jew who survived owes his life in a way to the Italians."

Another witness, Henriette Samuel, told a similar story of heroism and sacrifice, this time from the people of Norway.

In a quiet, level voice, Mrs. Samuel said she had confirmation that her husband, who was the chief rabbi of Norway's 1,700 Jews, died in the Auschwitz gas chambers.

* * *

Then she told how the Norwegian underground risked everything but succeeded in helping 850 Jews across the border to safety in Sweden.

Bach introduced a letter to the Nazi Foreign Ministry signed by Eichmann which complained bitterly about the fact that Sweden was giving shelter to Jewish refugees from Norway.

Ring Discovered Shipping Goods To Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Thursday it has uncovered an international ring which tried to obtain millions of dollars worth of Western-made goods for illegal shipment to Red China and other Communist countries.

The Bureau of Foreign Commerce, an agency of the Commerce Department, said the firms and individuals involved operated in Switzerland, France and West Germany.

* * *

Besides several firms and individuals named by the bureau, officials said they believed still others took part in the clandestine operation.

In an order issued Thursday, the bureau barred a Geneva company, Polycomex, S.A., and a number of others from handling any U.S. exports. Several similar orders were issued in the past against other firms allegedly participating in the ring.

* * *

The latest action stemmed from the reported illegal shipment to Red China of $50,000 worth of American-made electronic equipment.

Officials said the operations of the ring went far beyond this, however.

They said the participants dealt in many other strategic items and ordered for Communist customers millions of dollars worth of goods produced in the United States and Western Europe.

* * *

Besides Polycomex, those named in the latest order included Societe de Representation Industriele et de Commerce Pour l'Europe of Paris, Frankfurt and Berlin; BERIM of Paris.

Also named were the following Geneva firms and residents:

Mrs. Bottom Bothered By Bumps in Bathtub

LONDON (AP) — There were bumps in the bottom of Mrs. Bottoms' bath. So she went to court Thursday rather than pay the plumber's bill.

Plumber William Nelson told the judge of the Cheshire County Court at Altrincham: "After I installed the bath, the lady said it was bumpy. I inspected it and only by running my hand over the porcelain could I feel the bumps."

Isobel Bottoms, he said, had refused to have anything to do with his bill when he submitted it.

Judge Hugh Emplyn-Jones asked Mrs. Bottoms if the bumps were easily visible.

"If you get in the bath, you can feel them," she replied.

A witness for Mrs. Bottoms, architect Arnold Clews, was asked by the judge if the bumps would make the bath less comfortable.

"To sit on these bumps would certainly do so," Clews answered. "I don't think the finish has the esthetic quality I would expect—even from a bath costing 19 pounds—$53.20."

* * *

The judge agreed that the bath, while not dangerous, lacked "an esthetic quality." He gave judgment for the plumber, with court costs, but ordered that his bill for nearly 50 pounds—$140—should be reduced by 13 pounds—$50.40—because of the bumps on the bottom of Mrs. Bottoms' bath.

Tasmanian Devil Worries Farmers

HOBART, Tasmania (AP)—The Tasmania devil — a prize exhibit in the big zoos of the world—is becoming a worry to some farmers in Tasmania.

Earlier this century there were fears it would become extinct and it is completely protected.

Double Tonsillectomy Is Stopped By Death

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A father and son were going to share an unusual experience Wednesday, having their tonsils out.

William S. Iredale, 28, a suburban Upper Darby policeman, entered the operating room in Fitzgerald Mercy hospital first. His son, Daniel, 7, waited his turn.

Hospital officials said the elder Iredale's heart stopped beating before the operation could begin. A team of doctors pronounced him dead after trying for hours to restore his heart beat.

The boy's operation was canceled and he returned home to his mother and two sisters.

Senator Describes Washington Reflex

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has a tart description for the way he says many Washington problems are met.

Objecting to a proposal for direct government subsidies for political campaign costs and urging tax credits for modest private contributions instead, Keating told a Senate subcommittee Thursday: "Too often our Washington reflex is to discover a problem and then throw money at it, hoping it will go away."

Jackie Robinson Is Pleased by Kennedy Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) —Retired baseball star Jackie Robinson has written Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy a letter of congratulations on Kennedy's address on civil rights at the University of Georgia last Saturday.

Robinson, the first Negro to play in the major leagues, did not support the attorney general's brother, President Kennedy, in the campaign last fall.

JACKIE ROBINSON

But he wrote Robert Kennedy: "Your speech in Georgia was most encouraging. Your actions demonstrate your sincere desire to support the principles of your important office. Your attitude tends to further increase our prestige throughout the world.

"Because of an earlier misunderstanding, I had grave doubts about your sincerity. In this case, I find it a pleasure to be proven wrong.

"May you continue to give your demonstrated leadership which is so necessary at this time."

In the Saturday address, marking a Law Day observance, the attorney general said the present generation of Americans has "the full burden of proving to the world that we really mean it when we say all men are created free and are equal before the law."

Ann Miller, Dancer, Gets Divorce; Plans to Resume Acting Career

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Ann Miller Thursday got a divorce, the family home and $43,000 cash from William P. Moss.

"My husband, a Texas oilman, said he didn't want me to travel with him on his many trips," she told a judge. "He left me alone. Sometimes he called on the phone, but for the most part it was a rather lonely life.

"Finally he packed his bags and said he was going to Texas and wouldn't be back. All this made me very ill and I cried myself to sleep many a night."

* * *

Miss Miller charged cruelty. She gave no testimony about an allegation in her complaint that Moss frequently struck her and, in February 1960, broke her hand.

The dancing star told reporters she plans to resume her career, which has been dormant the last three years.

Miss Miller, 42, and Moss, 40, married Aug. 22, 1958, in La Jolla, Calif., and separated last Feb. 13. They have no children.

Miss Miller and her first husband, Reese L. Milner, heir to an iron fortune, were divorced in 1947. Moss has three children by his former wife, actress Jane Withers.

34 Kangaroos Arrive In U.S.

CATSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — The Kangaroo population of the United States took a giant hop Thursday with the arrival of 34 animals from Australia.

The kangaroos, unloaded in Boston, were the first to reach these shores since Australia clamped an embargo on the export of its wild life last year, a spokesman for the Catskill game farm said.

* * *

This shipment was authorized because the animals entered on a duty-free, exchange basis. U.S. zoos in return will send North American animals to Australia.

Twenty-two kangaroos and 12 wallabies — small kangaroos—arrived aboard the freighter City of Melbourne, the spokesman said. They are to be shipped to the game farm, near here, and the farm later will parcel the animals out to zoos throughout the United States.

In One Gate; Out the Other

MOSCOW (AP) —Pravda, the Communist party paper, said Sunday that freight trains are speeding back and forth across this country carrying scrap metal to factories which have just shipped away surplus scrap metal. The paper said the reason for this mixup was the fact that various government departments were not coordinating their efforts.

"Raw material goes into one gate of a factory while similar raw material is going out at another gate," said Pravda, denouncing the officials responsible. "If their own pockets would suffer from this, they would have made changes long ago."

'Old Shaky' Radar Tower Tragedy Is Blamed on Design Firm

By LEWIS HAWKINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The builder of an ill-fated Atlantic radar tower said Thursday the Navy decided to erect the structure despite prior damage. But he said the decision seemed in the national interest at the time.

The radar tower, put up in 1957 as part of the nation's offshore aerial warning system, collapsed last Jan. 15 carrying its 28 personnel to death. The builder said he decided three days earlier that the tower should be evacuated.

* * *

E. G. Rau, vice president and chief engineer of J. Rich Steers, Inc., told the Senate Preparedness Investigating subcommittee that the decision to put up the three-legged steel tower was made by Cmdr. Edmund Foster, the Navy officer in charge at the installation.

Foster testified earlier that the decision to erect the damaged Texas tower at its site 85 miles east of Atlantic City, N.J., rather than tow it back to Portland, Maine, was the responsibility of the contractor not the Navy. Rau testified he discussed the tower's loss of two of its principal braces with the Navy commander and the decision to go ahead and upend the tower in 185 feet of water was that of the Navy—"as given to me by Foster."

* * *

But Rau said if the tower had been towed back to port it could not have been put into service in 1957 and it was urgently needed in the defense system.

After erection, the two lost leg braces were replaced by two other braces of a different type and the job was completed in November 1957 at a cost of $10.37 million.

At the time, Rau said, he was convinced by reassurances from the design-engineering firm that the tower had been restored to its original strength.

The tower—which early became known as "Old Shaky" to the Air Force personnel who manned it—received further bracing in August of last year. The Steers company installed above-water bracing at a cost of $500,000.

The following month, the tower was battered by a hurricane. In October, further underwater damage was found and it was decided to attempt its repair with cable bracing. This project was under way at the time of the tragedy and the victims included several civilians of the repair crew. The Steers company was doing this work also and had a March 1 completion date.

* * *

But on Jan. 7 another Brace was found to be broken. Rau said he became alarmed and kept in close touch with the chief designer, Theodore Keuss, all through the following week. On Jan. 12, Rau said, Keuss told him the tower was at only 55 per cent of its designed strength and Rau decided it should be evacuated.

CAVE-IN SCENE IN BEVERLY HILLS—This is the spot where foundation work for a bank building collapsed, leaving scaffolding and debris in a hole four stories deep on Wilshire boulevard in Beverly Hills, Calif. Scaffolding and concrete work fell into an excavation to be used as an underground parking lot for 1000 autos. Police said the cave-in apparently was caused by ruptures in water mains in the area.

Portugal's New Foreign Minister Impresses NATO Council Members

OSLO, Norway (AP)—"Remember the name," the French diplomat said. "You're going to hear a lot more of it."

The delegate at the conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was talking about Portugal's new foreign minister, Franco Nogueiras.

Energetic, only 42, a fireball who, although he found himself more than once in a minority of about one in the 15-member council, by all accounts he made an impact on his colleagues.

* * *

Nogueiras was in the NATO dock, so to speak, attempting to defend his country's policy in far-away Angola. There, evidently, a full-scale Negro revolt is under way. Even as NATO foreign ministers met, newspapers were printing somber accounts of riots and massacres.

For several powers, conscious of the image they present to the world at large and to African-Asian nations in particular, NATO's association with Portugal has become an embarrassment. Some, including the United States, Canada, Norway and Denmark, voted with Portugal's critics when a condemnatory resolution recently was debated in the United Nations.

* * *

What, Nogueiras demanded, was the point of an alliance if its members did not stand shoulder to shoulder in times of trouble?

He flayed his friends for succumbing to what he called fashionable but questionable dogmas about colonialism.

He asserted that the concept of anticolonialism was just another word for political expediency.

All Africa, he argued, was wide open to Communist penetration and he said the Reds are well along today.

* * *

Nogueiras listed the lands he said were under Communist control or heading that way: Ghana, Mali, Guinea, Morocco, Tunisia, Ethiopia, the United Arab Republic, Nigeria, Mauretania.

As for the Congo, Nogueiras claimed Communist-led troublemakers were behind the raids and attacks being unleashed against a part of metropolitan Portugal—his way of describing Angola.

* * *

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home felt compelled to reply to Nogueiras. Rusk spoke of the realities of life in the United Nations and the need to live with Africans and Asians.

Lord Home advised him to come back into the 20th century. For the mild-mannered Britisher that was saying a lot since he is to visit Lisbon soon.

Halvard Lange of Norway also advised Nogueiras to adjust himself to the probability that the United Nations is here to stay.

Canada's Howard Green disputed that either Ghana or Nigeria had gone or were likely to go Red.

* * *

Nogueiras had his defenders—Belgium's Paul-Henri Spaak, mindful of the Congo; and Joseph Luns of Holland, remembering Indonesia's claims on New Guinea, and others.

The debate rambled on inconclusively.

But few of Nogueiras' colleagues would be surprised if he were to rise some time to be the new master of Portugal.

Opposition Asks Drastic Changes In Constitution

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Political opponents of Premier Antonio Salazar's regime called Thursday for drastic changes in the Portuguese constitution to bring about a more democratic rule for the nation.

Their demands coincided with new and violent crises in Portuguese Africa and followed Salazar's recent attempts to strengthen his hand with government shakeups.

Seventy well-known opposition figures—lawyers, journalists and businessmen—submitted their demands in the form of a memorandum to the press. Political observers saw the move as the first shot in the election campaign for the National Assembly next October.

The memorandum maintained that "a democratic system must be restored in Portugal" as a first step toward solving the nation's problems in its troubled African colony of Angola.

* * *

It also obliquely called on the Portuguese government to recognize and exchange envoys with the Soviet Union.

Portugal has not given diplomatic recognition to Russia since the 1917 revolution.

Heading the signatories to the memorandum were Dr. Azevedo Gomez, Col. Helder Ribeiro (Ret.), Adm. Jose Mendes Cabecadas Jr. (Ret.) and Acacio de Gouveia, lawyer.

The opposition program called also for reforms in Portugal's judicial system, a free press, the release of all political prisoners, collaboration with African nations who are neighbors of Portuguese possessions and talks with India on the question of Goa, Portuguese India.

Mark Twain Estate Earns $18,679

REDDING, Conn. (AP) — Mark Twain's estate made $18,679 last year in royalties on his books.

The annual accounting was announced by Probate Judge Hjalmar Anderson, who was 6 years old when author Samuel L. Clemens died here in 1910.

Anderson has reported on the estate annually for the past 24 years. As of Dec. 31, 1960, the estate was valued at $783,485.

New Youth Committee Director Is Remembered as Hockey Star

WASHINGTON (AP) — David L. Hackett, the new executive director of the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime, talks and acts like a Kennedy.

A teen-age chum of the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Hackett is a quiet, intense, energetic, and athletic young man of 34.

Blond, deep-voiced and handsome, he has a dry sense of humor.

* * *

In an interview, Hackett preferred not to say much about his days as a hockey star at Montreal's McGill University.

"Were you in any other sports?" he was asked.

"Well, yes, football. They play a 12-man team up there and I was No. 12."

Hackett, who became the second American to play on McGill's hockey team, was picked for the U.S. Olympic hockey team in 1948, but asked to be excused.

* * *

Chosen again for the 1952 Olympic games, he accepted but never got into the competition at Oslo that year.

"I went along with the team," he said, "but I had a broken leg. I broke it in our final exhibition against Brown University at Providence."

His Olympic hockey trainer, Jock Semple, said in Boston Thursday that Hackett "was a heck of a player."

"He was our No. 1 man," Semple said. "He was picked for the team but he broke his ankle. He would have won it for us, too. We lost by a point at Oslo.

"He went to McGill and made the varsity—and for an American to make that with the Canadians—that's something."

Hackett, a native of Dedham, Mass., attended Milton Academy at Milton, Mass., where he first met Robert Kennedy and formed a friendship which has lasted ever since.

Hackett left Milton in 1943 to become a paratrooper in the 11th Airborne Division and saw service in the Philippines and Japan before his discharge in 1946. He then went to McGill to finish his education, afterwards joining the Montreal firm publishing The Montrealer magazine.

He left the magazine last year to join in the John F. Kennedy campaign for the presidency, serving the campaign headquarters as director of correspondence.

* * *

Since January, he has been a special assistant to the attorney general for juvenile delinquency. He accompanied Robert Kennedy on an early spring trip to New York City where they made a long shirt-sleeve walk through a slum area to talk to young gang members about their problems.

Hackett is married to the former Judith Williams of Berkshire, England. They have two daughters, Louisa, 3, and Kimberley 1, and a son, Christopher, 2.

Hackett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Y. Hackett of Boston, where his father is associated with a brokerage firm.

Of his new assignment, Hackett said: "We have been working informally on this matter since before the November election. What the committee will try to do is to provide more leadership than the federal government has in the past."

Railroad Whistles Sound Protest To Freight Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whistles and horns on railroad locomotives sounded across sections of the nation as a signal of protest against a freight rate bill on which Senate hearings began Thursday.

The noise was unexpected at Lorain, Ohio. It brought a flood of telephone queries to authorities and newspapers. Some residents said they thought it was a big disaster.

The bill, supported by Teamsters Union officials and opposed by the railroads, concerns the "piggyback" hauling of trucks on railroad flatcars.

* * *

The measure, introduced by Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to consider the effect a freight carrier's rates and practices might have on the business of a competing method of freight carrying.

Railroad officials claim the Teamsters are backing the measure because the railroads' piggyback operations have begun to recapture business lost to truckers.

The piggyback operation is the carrying of a loaded truck trailer on a railroad flatcar between two points, rather than driving the trailer over the road. The railroads claim the piggyback operation is cheaper.

Enginemen were directed by their railroads to sound the protest horns and whistles. In most areas the noise was at 10 a.m. local time.

Motorist Sends Check For Twenty-Five Cents

It seems she missed the basket when she tried to throw a quarter into an automatic toll collector on the Connecticut Turnpike.

She started to get out to retrieve it, but a long line of motorists behind her began to honk their horns. So she drove off.

Later, she began to brood — maybe she had better make certain the state received the money. Thus, the check.

Castro Seizes U.S. Movie Distributors

HAVANA (AP) — U. S. movie distributing companies in Cuba have been taken over by Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government, it was announced Thursday.

The government named 20th Century-Fox, Metro - Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner, Columbia, United Artists and Universal International. They will be operated by the Cuban Institute of Cinematographic Arts and Industries.

Dr. Alfredo Guevara, institute director, told a news conference the distributors are being intervened because they had not adjusted to "standards set by the revolution."

Guevara charged that American films carry political messages aimed at undermining the work of those who have "struggled for the liberation of people oppressed by Yankee imperialism."

He also said that old Charlie Chaplin films are being retrieved from vaults of the intervened firms, presumably for re-release.

New Hanover Board Discusses Zoning Laws

Planning codes and zoning laws were discussed by New Hanover township supervisors at a meeting Wednesday night.

Joseph Keegan, secretary and treasurer of the board, said the township now has a building code and a subdivision ordinance, but members are planning a zoning code and are investigating various aspects of zoning laws. He said proper zoning laws would allow for an orderly expansion in the township.

The meeting was in the New Hanover-Upper Frederick elementary school.

Your Horoscope

The Stars Say—By ESTRELLITA

For Today

DO NOT permit yourself to become disturbed if you have to make sudden changes in plans now. The possibility is there but, if you accept matters philosophically, you will find that these changes work to your ultimate advantage.

For The Birthday

If today is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that some of the ideas that occur to you—especially those regarding finances—should be developed without delay, since their potential could be well developed by October. But you will have to work hard in the meantime.

Except for brief periods, late December will also be good for monetary matters. If your ideas involve speculation, however, discard them. This is just not your year to take chances. Conservative policies, carried out with the long-range view, are the only ones which will help you to wind up your year on the credit side of the ledger.

In personal affairs, romance holds the spotlight this year. Those who are single may well be wed before the ned of 1961 and, for those already married, the stars promise a happy strengthening of the marriage ties.

July and August will be the best period for travel, and those in creative lines will find the period between mid-December and next March highly stimulating along inspirational lines.

A child born on this day will be extremely conservative, trustworthy and highly independent.

JOSEPH DeBLASE and Chester Bechtel both manage private clubs that employ a large number of food handlers—and both said their employes were glad of the opportunity and the saving in both time and money.

Bechtel, manager of the Elks club, 61 High street, said that "a whole group of the waitresses from here went over after work Wednesday. They were very enthusiastic about the idea and I know they're all in favor of having it done the same way next year."

DeBlase, manager of Brookside Country club, also plumped for "a special time when all those covered by the law can get it over with quickly—so it doesn't interfere too much with their working hours."

Douglass Policeman Will Undergo Surgery

DA WILL SCAN REPORTS ON PERFECT CRIME

sheriffs and Virginia State Police in the investigation there.

* * *

POLICE HAVE gone without a single "break" or substantial evidence pointing toward the murderer since finding the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Paige Russell Blakely Sr. in their locked 42 Chestnut street home March 28.

The course of the investigation led to Augusta Springs, a tiny hamlet in the foothills above the Shenandoah valley.

Augusta Springs is described by the local "visitors" as comparing to Pine Forge in size. It is a one-road town, with a paved Main street and numerous dusty paths leading off into the hills.

The population is said to be "one big family." They're all Blakelys and in-laws, according to the stories there.

"Everyone in Augusta Springs is a relative, somehow," they say. "A second cousin to this one or a great aunt to that one, or somebody's sister-in-law's niece."

* * *

THE AUTHORITIES questioned numerous close relatives of the family and searched into the backgrounds of "certain individuals," according to Pottstown Police Chief Harold E. Hahn. He added Wednesday that "nothing substantial" came out of the quest.

Although several reports are not completed, the principal officials involved in investigating the case—with the exception of Spencer—met to confer Thursday.

No statement came out of the conference, because the District Attorney has not been briefed. Copies of the reports were distributed to Hahn, State Police investigators, Chief County Detective Charles Moody and the District Attorney's staff.

Lawler, Roehner, Waters and State Police will pick up the investigation in this area once again.

Kasavubu Drives For Constitution In Congo State

COQUILHATVILLE, the Congo (AP)—In a mood of now or never, President Joseph Kasavubu and his supporters are making a final drive to draw up a new constitution for the Congo.

Uppermost in the minds of the delegates to the Coquilhatville political conference is an absent member, Katanga's Moise Tshombe, locked up in a guarded villa and charged with treason.

* * *

Hope for a workable solution to the Congo's 10-month-old political and economic crisis rose as committees wound up their work for presentation to the full conference.

Leading ministers estimated it would take from four days to two weeks for the plenary session to approve the proposed constitution.

The conference opened in this jungle village on April 24 but its deliberations were overshadowed by Tshombe's airport arrest two days later as he attempted to walk out.

* * *

Besides representatives of Kasavubu's central government there are provincial delegates from Equator and North and South Kasai. The Lumumbist regime of Antoine Gizenga in Oriental Province declined to participate.

The constitution, if adopted, would be presented for ratification by Parliament or a referendum by next September, according to official sources. Foreign legal experts are to be consulted before final implementation.

* * *

Despite the attitude of determination among the delegates, doubts still linger about the effectiveness of this almost random collection of politicians in giving force to their proposals, with Gizenga's regime unrepresented, and Tshombe interned.

But the Kasavubu government has declared it intends to "liberate" Katanga from Tshombe's government of "traitors" and fully expects U. N. assistance in neutralizing the Katanga army and its foreign mercenaries.

Changes in Pupils' Attitude Noted by Nun on Anniversary

Sister Anna Rose knelt with bowed head Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock at the communion rail of St. Aloysius Catholic church.

A few feet away, the Rev. Robert H. Roedel was chanting the traditional words of blessing to the large Ascension Thursday congregation waiting to receive communion.

As he walked down the steps to place the small white communion wafers on the tongues of the Sisters of St. Francis, Sister Anna Rose, fourth grade teacher at St. Aloysius school, recalled a day 25 years ago when she received communion the first time as a professed nun.

It was Aug. 24, 1936. Sister was then a young girl, jubilantly remembering the rush of the last few days of investiture into the order founded 82 years earlier by the Venerable John N. Neumann, fourth bishop of Philadelphia.

* * *

After three years training in postulancy and novitiate, she chose the name Sister Anna Rose. One week later she left Glen Riddle for first assignment.

Since she left the motherhouse where she was trained, the number of nuns in her order increased from 1200 to more than 1600.

Sister Anna Rose, jovial, lively and deeply religious, made her entrance into her life's career of prayer and teaching in St. Michael's orphanage, Hopewell, N. J., where she taught kindergarten.

"The first children I taught there were much different from the ones I teach now," she said.

"They weren't so restless and on edge as children of today. But most important, the only thing they wanted to do was learn. You never had to prod them the way you do now," she recalled.

* * *

SISTER REMARKED on the change in every aspect of teaching small children in her years of religious life.

"When you wanted something done, you just asked the children to do it once. Then you could forget about it. You knew it would be done."

But she said today's children need to be reminded several times before they do something the right way.

"They let the kids get so wrapped up in their television shows the children expect them to call a third or fourth time."

Was teaching as many as 90 children in one class ever a stumbling block to Sister Anna Rose? It would seem so, as she has taught more than 1600 pupils in her career.

"It's harder to teach a large class, I'll admit," Sister said. "But is there such a thing as a parochial school that isn't overcrowded?" she queried

* * *

ONE OF THE biggest problems in a nun's teaching life was pointed out by the many dioceses she served in.

After three years in Hopewell, N.J., she was transferred to Trenton, N.J., where she taught kindergarten and second grade eight years in Immaculate Conception school.

Next came two years of first and second grade teaching in Holy Trinity school, Boston, Mass., followed by a year's first grade teaching at St. Joseph's school, Lancaster.

Before Sister started teaching the Fourth grade at St. Aloysius school six years ago, she spent six years teaching First graders at Sacred Heart school, Allentown.

"It's quite a change from teaching methods in one diocese to another," Sister commented. "And it seems every diocese has a different technique."

* * *

SISTER pinpointed the secret of teaching so many children so many years without having to discipline harshly as "love for each child."

"There's no such thing as a bad child to me. If you teach for the right motive, to raise children to adulthood with a deep love of God and consideration for their fellowmen, your pupils will reflect it by their own goodness."

Sister said, however, her pupils occasionally get out of hand, and there's one sure way of returning them to the "straight and narrow."

"Nothing has a stronger or more lasting effect than a Sister's icy stare," she emphasized. "It can humble the naughtiest of children, and often adults too," she chuckled.

* * *

METHODS OF teaching have changed a great deal since Sister Anna Rose was bestowed with the veil and cross of her order a quarter century ago.

To keep up with these changes, Sister spends many of her Summer vacations studying. She holds a bachelor of arts degree in education from Villanova university as a result of these vacation efforts.

Was one of the most difficult parts of her life sacrificing personal ties and family?

"The family of a nun is the order, with God as the father and the Blessed Virgin Mary the mother.

"If you keep this thought uppermost in your mind, there can be no loss, only gain."

Twenty five years of love. Love of God, love of children, love of teaching. This is the life of Sister Anna Rose, Fourth grade teacher at St. Aloysius Catholic school.

Civil Air Patrol Backs Film Showing

The film "Operation Abolition" found favor with 14 members of Civil Air Patrol squadron 906 Thursday night when it was shown at a meeting at the Flyers' Roost, Pottstown airport at Limerick.

"Everyone favored showing of the film to more groups in the area," said Alvin E. Renninger, information officer of the squadron.

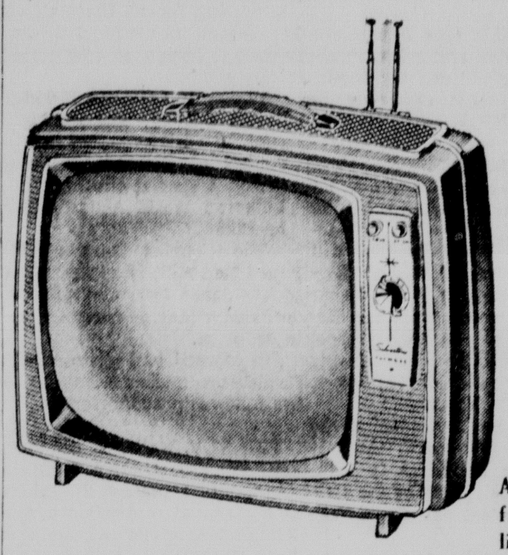

A team for conducting rescue missions was drawn up and the possibility of obtaining a radio communications center was discussed.

pation tax will return $22,000 and real estate transfer levies another $9000. The directors count on collection of delinquent taxes amounting to $1700.

State reimbursement will be down about $8000 from the current year because the township market value has risen. The State will pay $110,400.

In addition to jointure payments, directors expect to spend $8000 on township bond issues, $7735 for general control, $360 for recreation and $150 for social security payments.

The budget will be advertised for 30 days and is open to inspection by the public until final adoption which will come shortly after June 13, the date set for final adoption of the jointure budget.

TOWNSHIP BOARD OKAYS HIGHER BUDGET

West Pottsgrove Millage Remains Same

The 1961-62 school budget for West Pottsgrove township will be increased by approximately $25,000 over last year, but the increase will not mean higher millage rates for township residents.

The budget was adopted Thursday night at a meeting of the school board in the West Pottsgrove Elementary school building.

Daniel Boyer, secretary, said the new budget will be $330,455. Boyer said the reasons for the same millage rate are: 1) An increase in State reimbursement; and 2) The school board was underspent in the past year's budget.

In other business, the board appointed Donald Kulp as secretary; John Psota, treasurer; and Leonard Levengood to the school authority. Jules Pearlstine was also selected as solicitor.

Boyer said the board also paid bills in the amount of $25,372.

McNamara Bans Misleading American Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department spokesman said Thursday that "under no circumstances does Secretary McNamara feel that the American public should be misled about a military program."

"But at the same time," the spokesman said, "he does not think we should gratuitously provide any potential enemy with valuable information about any difficulties which may be encountered in the development of new weapons systems."

This was the Pentagon's reply to questions newsmen raised about remarks Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara made before the Senate Armed Services Committee in secret session when discussing military secrecy about the Nike Zeus antimissile missile, and other projects.

* * *

In that testimony, made public Wednesday, McNamara asked: "Why should we tell Russia that the Zeus developments may not be satisfactory?"

Then he added: "What we ought to be saying is that we have the most perfect anti-ICBM system that the human mind will ever devise. Instead, the public domain is already full of statements that the Zeus may not be satisfactory, that it has deficiencies. I think it is absurd to release that kind of information for the public."

This statement startled some newsmen, who interpreted it as meaning McNamara favored giving out falsely optimistic information about the Nike-Zeus and other secret military projects.

Referring to McNamara's reference to telling the Soviet Union that Zeus developments may not be satisfactory, the Pentagon spokesman said the secretary had in mind "the enormous advantages to Russia of our disclosing difficulties which might develop in new weapons systems."

* * *

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., said Thursday he agrees with newspapermen that if too many defense secrets are being published, the fault lies with defense officials who release them, not with newspapers that publish them.

When the defense secretary appeared before congressional groups, including the Senate Armed Services Committee, in early April, he himself cast doubt on the effectiveness of the Zeus.

His formal statement at that time noted "widespread doubts as to whether the Nike-Zeus system should ever be deployed."

He spoke of "considerable uncertainty as to its technical feasibility" and said that "even if successfully developed, there are many serious operating problems yet to be solved."

"The system, itself, is vulnerable to ballistic missile attack and its effectiveness could be degraded by the use of more sophisticated ICBMs screened by multiple decoys," McNamara told the committee.

"Saturation of the target is another possibility, as ICBMs become easier and cheaper to produce in coming years."

The Kennedy administration has declined to ask Congress for money to start production of items for the Nike-Zeus system. The reasoning, as expressed by defense officials, is that it has yet to be proved in tests.

INTRA-PARTY TESTS SEEN IN PRIMARY

tles, which seem to hold the majority of voter interest, however, are limited to registered Republicans and Democrats.

* * *

TRAPPE FEATURES three major intra-party battles, all Republican, with William H. Catanese fighting incumbent Willard W. Stevens for burgess in the top battle. Other clashes see incumbent Tax Collector Earl B. Moyer facing Ronald C. Crist and Eva M. Youngblood, Gordon M. Wiest and Ernest K. Moyer all seeking the two available school board posts.

In Schwenksville a lone fight, again on the Republican ticket, enlivens an other wise dull, off-year primary. Fighting for the two seats on the school board are Herbert W. Barron, Perkomen township; Clarence W. Tyson, Lower Frederick township; Clyde S. Kindig, Lower Frederick township; Jane B. Markley, Schwenksville; and Ernest F. Royer, Schwenkesville.

The incumbent is Royer, currently treasurer of the nine member union district board. The Democratic candidates are F. Thomas Snyder and F. Donald Zucker, both of Schwenksville.

In Lower Pottsgrove the Democrats called an open primary with 12 candidates for seven posts. Heading the list are four candidates for the two commission openings — Charles E. Reininger Jr., Charles S. Moses, Gerald G. Richards and John J. Basco.

Fighting for the party's treasurer's nomination are Howard E. Rumler and Joseph C. Mack and seeking the Democratic nod for the two school director's posts are Victor H. Van Horn, George Daisy and Philip E. Gerberick.

IN UPPER Providence one GOP contest adds to the interest. Seeking the Republican nomination for supervisor are incumbent Robert W. Griffith and Harold G. Becker. In Pennsburg another Republican contest—with John J. Dulin and Stanley Berger both after the tax collector's job.

Three fights enliven the Upper Hanover township primary battle. On the Democratic side, Harry W. Kern and Wilfred H. DeLong, and on the Republican side, Wallace C. Stauffer and Rolland K. Stong, seek the nominations of their parties for tax collector.

Three Republicans seek the two school director's posts open—incumbent Otto A. Koch and John H. Swope and Michael Hillegass. Richard Trumbore is the lone Democratic candidate.

In Limerick six candidates are seeking the tax collector's post, including incumbent Republican Franklin Roth. The other candidates are Democrats Philip Dinkelocker Jr., Walter Tokersky, Barbara J. Kuterbach and Joseph J. Shoemaker, and Republican George L. Yerger.

Another fight sees Democrats Frank Rumler and Milton Walters seeking the nod for supervisor. The GOP candidate is Henry J. Philips.

* * *

EAST GREENVILLE voters will only have two party fights to worry about before selecting a Third Legislative district Assemblyman. The Democrats will choose between Theodore Zeigler and Frederick E. Schlicher for tax collector while the Republicans choose two school board candidates from among Louis C. Pirnik, Marvin Moyer and Curtis D. Kuhns.

Kuhns is now president of the East Greenville board. The only Democratic candidate is Richard H. Kressly, leaving the election of at least one Republican a certainty.

In Collegeville one minor fight — between Clarence W. Scheuren Jr. and Charles L. Kane for justice of the peace—on the Democratic ticket and none on the GOP ballot. In Worcester the lone fight is on the Republican side, with LeRoy W. Brooke and Harvey W. Fishburn Jr. seeking the nomination for constable.

Skippack Republicans will choose between Frank N. Jamison and C. Willis Heacock for supervisor. The winner will face John W. Hasson, a Democrat.

Harvard Professor's Will Bases Bequests On Psychological Tests

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) —A retired Harvard professor has willed his two sons an extra inheritance—scaled to how they and their future wives rate in a series of mental-physical-character tests.

The unique bequest is from Dr. Truman Lee Kelley, authority on psychological testing and measurement, and one of the authors of the widely used Stanford achievement test battery.

* * *

He died May 2 at 76 and terms of his will and its so-called "eugenics trust" were disclosed when it was filed Thursday with the county clerk.

His apparent goal: to obtain for his sons superior marriages through eugenic selection. Eugenics is a process of race improvement by mating superior types suited to each other.

* * *

The will sets up a complicated series of tests for his sons Kenneth, 22, Air Force lieutenant stationed at Wurtsmith AFB, Mich., and Kalon, 24, reportedly working for a Ph.D. degree at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Neither could be reached for comment.

Both are single. They and the women they marry are to receive cash awards in proportion to their fitness as determined by the tests. The birth of children to a high-scoring couple calls for additional awards.

Dr. Kelley named a group of trustees headed by Eric F. Gardner of Syracuse University, to device the tests and administer the eugenics trusts for his sons, and left 50 shares of Illinois Terminal stock plus other funds to pay the awards.

The trusts were established, the 1954-dated will says, "to promote the eugenic marriage of my sons through counseling, marriage and birth awards."

To be eligible for a marriage award the son and his prospective bride must give the trustees any information they need to determine prior to marriage the couple's "E" — for eugenics — score.

* * *

For each point above average, the son and his bride would receive $400 each, from which would be deducted $400 for each point below average. On the birth of a child, a similar award of $600 per point would be paid.

Since the number of possible points is still to be determined by the trustees, the highest amount available was not stated. The total value of property owned by Dr. Kelley was estimated at $175,000.

In addition to the fund set up to finance the eugenics trusts, Dr. Kelley left half of his estate to his widow, Grace, and one-fourth each to the sons.

Market Gains First Time in Week

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time this week, the stock market managed to generate enough upside momentum to establish a clear—but very small—advance Thursday. Trading was heavy.

The market was irregular all day but a late improvement nudged the statistics definitely to the upside.

Of 1233 issues traded, 575 advanced and 479 declined. New highs for the year toraled 92 and new lows 5.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .20 to 247.00, an historic high. Any advance, no matter how small would have put this indicator at a new peak because Wednesday's final reading matched the high. The industrial component dropped .30, rails advanced .50 and utilities rose .20.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 stocks fell .12 to 686.49 while the Dow composite of 65 industrials, rails and utilities advanced .23 to 229.58.

Volume was 5.17 million shares compared with Wednesday's 5.45 million.

Publicker showed a net gain of 1⅝ at 13¾ on 191,500 shares. Second most active was Graham-Paige, up ⅝ at 2½ on 181,800 shares. Third was Eastern Air Lines, up 1 at 30¾ on 68,000 shares.

Next came Avnet Electronics, up 3⅞ at 56⅜, and Sperry Rand, up 2⅛ at 34.

McDonnell Aircraft, prime contractor for the Mercury space capsule, fell 1⅞ to 36⅛ on profit taking in the wake of its big rise. American Machine and Foundry, which has suffered greatly from profit taking, rebounded 2¼ to 105 as it announced a new contract for bowling equipment.

Texas Instruments rose 3¾, Raytheon ⅞, Eastman Kodak 1⅜, U.S. Rubber 1, United Air Lines ½, American Airlines ¾ and Radio corporation ¾.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly higher on volue of 4.84 million shares compared with 4.39 million Wednesday. Kawecki Chemical advanced 3⅞, Resito 3⅞, Resistoflex 2, Electronic Communications 1⅞, Technicolor 1¾ and General Development 1⅜.

Analyst Scorns Glamor Stocks, Cites Value In 'Unpopular' Issues

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The current stock market, like all Gaul, is divided into three parts.

That's the conclusion of Kenneth Ward, analyst for the brokerage firm, Hayden, Stone & Co.

The segments, he says, are:

1. Glamor stocks which have stocks which have advanced with bewildering speed and, by all the known measurements of evaluation, seem to be discounting their prospective growth quite a long time ahead.

2. Many sound stocks and overlooked good quality values, such as the leading rubber stocks and the papers as a group.

3. Many low-priced stocks, some with excellent prospects, which have not been exploited so far.

"The over-all picture shows a rampaging older bull and a rather quiescent younger bull which has not yet had a chance to win many blue ribbons," says Ward.

"At this stage of the market I'd certainly feel much better about taking a ride on the broad back of the latter-type bull than I would on his older companion, which some of the overly enthusiastic followers of the orbiting missile, automation and electronic stocks may belatedly discover to be somewhat more of a 'bum steer' than a still vigorous and aggressive bull."

Ward believes now is the time to pay increasing attention to some of the unpopular stocks of the past—the cyclical type stocks in the rubber, coal, auto, paper, copper, chemical and rail groups.

"All these groups seem to be getting ready to emerge from a long period of winter hibernation and giving some promise of better things to come," he says.

* * *

The tenacity of present bull markets across the non-Communist world from Japan to Germany is impressive, comments the financial publishing firm, Prentice-Hall.

It says this reveals a worldwide demand for stocks wherever middle class prosperity flourishes.

Prentice-Hall predicts that in Wall Street there will be additional profit-taking with a possible selling climax to be followed in a month or so by a strong summer rally.

It adds: "This will be partly seasonal (in the past 64 years the average advance in the Dow Jones industrial average from their June lows to their August highs has averaged better than 12 per cent).

"But market strength will also reflect record-smashing business prospects for 1962—the first real sample of what the soaring 60s have in store for us."

Judge Forced Guilty Plea Electric Executive Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of Allen-Bradley Co. told senators Thursday he and his company pleaded guilty to federal charges of price-fixing only because "we were left with no other alternative."

The executive, Fred Loock of Milwaukee, said U. S. Dist. Judge J. Cullen Ganey of Philadelphia had let defendants know that anyone who pleaded not guilty would have the book thrown at him if convicted.

"I don't believe that," Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., told Loock Kefauver is chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, which heard Loock testify.

Kefauver said Ganey had a fine reputation and would not want Loock to plead guilty if he were not guilty.

"That's a statement that can be made now," Loock told Kefauver. The Allen-Bradley president maintained, however, that "we had to choose between the lesser of two evils."

"There was no question in Philadelphia," Loock continued, "that a plea of guilty on the part of all the indicted people was essential to the government."

Ganey fined 29 electrical equipment manufacturers and 45 company officials almost $2 million and jailed seven officials after all the companies and officials pleaded guilty or no contest to federal charges of price-fixing.

Loock, who was fined $7,500, said, "Technically we were guilty." But he added: "I don't feel terribly bad. No. I feel we all tried to do a decent job and tried to protect ourselves in the interest of our industry and the customers."

* * *

Loock acknowledged that he had attended meetings with competitors to fix prices. At these sessions, he said, all agreed to raise their prices at the same time.

But, the executive said, "the nature of our discussions was not the amount of the price increase."

He said increased costs of labor and materials determined the amount of the increase. "We should have increased our prices more than we did," Loock said.

Another witness, Max Scott, testified that price-fixing in the electrical industry may go back as far as 1896.

Scott, president of the I-T-E Circuit Breaker Co., said he first had personally known of such meetings in 1930. And, he continued, his father and other oldtimers in the industry said the practice reached back to 1896.

Scott, who was not indicted although his company was fined $92,500, said he had been aware that his employes met with competitors to fix prices.

He said the larger companies had put pressure on small companies like I-T-E to attend the illegal meetings.

Employment Starts to Show Slight Gains

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employ- began to show some small but encouraging improvement in April.

The government also reported Thursday that the factory work week—one of the most closely watched economic indicators—rose again in April.

The work week increase was only six minutes to an average 39.2 hours a week but it represented a full half-hour rise since January.

Seymour Wolfbein, Labor Department manpower chief, said these minor changes are "not something you want to write home about, but in terms of what's happened we think this small turn-around is significant."

Wolfbein said the statisticians have their fingers crossed over the strength of the upturn, looking for some reversal in the still-rising trend of long-term unemployment and for improvements in especially hard-hit industries, occupations and areas.

The principal April job figures had been released a week ago. They showed employment rose by 218,000, less than expected, to 65,734,000. Unemployment fell by 533,000, more than expected, to 4,962,000. Some further seasonal cut in the idle total is due in May.

Long - term unemployment—meaning 15 weeks or longer—rose by 266,000 to 2,128,000, highest number in two decades. Some of the new figures showed that unemployment among heads of families is still heavy, at 1.9 million.

Over-all, the number of workers on nonfarm payrolls rose by nearly 400,000 to just over 52 million.

Factory employment remained about the same in April at 15.5 million but showed increases in certain key industries such as steel and other metals production, metal-fabricating and machinery-making.

Wolfbein said the fact that factory employment remained steady in April was especially encouraging because the month usually brings a seasonal decline of about 100,000.

Employment in factories—the most hard-hit sector of the economy in the recession—is still down more than 900,000 from April 1960.

This shrinkage is entirely among production or assembly line workers because the nonproduction work force, such as office help, has been steadily rising.

Construction jobs picked up by 217,000, better than seasonally expected despite bad weather. But construction remained one of the worst trouble spots with nearly one out of five listed as jobless.

Administration Officials Shun Council Meeting

By STERLING F. GREEN

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Kennedy administration officials were conspiciously absent Thursday as members of the Business Advisory Council gathered for their spring meeting.

The council, including about 100 top executives of the country's largest corporations, usually hears from a number of Cabinet officers and White House advisers. But the program this time was bare of all such appearances except for a speech Friday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, to whom the council reports, and Undersecretary Edward Gudeman.

* * *

Hodges has given the council the biggest shakeup in its 28-year history. He has eliminated some of its traditional secrecy, imposed on it the rules which govern other government advisory bodies, and banned its practice of paying the hotel bills and travel costs of government officials invited to its semiannual meetings. Officials may dip into their own pockets to attend.

As a result the meeting will be a family-only affair, with the discussions on business and economic problems restricted to BAC members, Hodges and half a dozen of his top aides.

For the latter, Hodges has authorized a $25 a day travel allowance—upped from the normal $12. The higher figure just about matches the hotel's American plan charge for a single room. Aides who bring wives, as most are doing, are to pay the extra cost.

Despite Hodges' liberalized news rules, reporters found they will be barred from most meetings. Hodges has directed that newsmen be admitted whenever government officials address the council, but the absence of government officials means that BAC, for the most part, will maintain its privacy.

* * *

Under his new rules, Hodges will preside as general chairman, although he may from time to time ask the council's newly elected head, Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., New York, to stand in for him.

Blough succeeded Ralph J. Cordiner, board chairman of General Electric Co., who said the press of other activities forced him to resign the BAC chairmanship. Some members of Congress had said Cordiner should leave the post in view of the electrical industry price-fixing scandal.

A curriculum change was also approved and nine men and four women hired for the eight week Summer playground program. The playgrounds—one in each of the five jointure schools—will be under the direction of Athletic Director Francis Roncase.

The curriculum change includes the addition of commercial and business law courses and a change in emphasis of several other courses.

New York City Drops Ticker-tape For Bourguiba

NEW YORK (AP) — Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba was welcomed to Manhattan Thursday with a traditional ticker-tape parade up Broadway. Police estimated that 200,000 persons lined the route.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner and his wife were waiting at City Hall to welcome President Bourguiba and his wife, as the motorcade pulled up under gray, threatening skies.

* * *

Bourguiba, wearing a dark blue topcoat, told the mayor: "I am very much moved by the cordial, warm welcome given me. It is a matter of pride and honor to me to report to the Tunisian people such a warm welcome."

The Tunisian president, regarded as one of this country's stauncher friends in troubled Africa, is on a visit to the United States that has included a meeting in Washington with President Kennedy.

* * *

After the parade, Bourguiba was guest of honor at a Waldorf-Astoria Hotel luncheon given by Wagner.

The Tunisian leader spoke to his audience of certain restraints inherent in freedom and added: "We prefer that type of society and we are confident that sooner or later, freedom will prevail because it recognizes the dignity of man as a human being and differentiates his status from that of beasts."

Famous Authority on Problems of Love & Marriage

No Place To Go — What Shall She Do?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

A year ago my husband told me to take our baby, who was only eight months old at the time, and get out. We had been married not quite two years and we were both 21 years old.

Even though he had begged and begged me to marry him and made me believe I was all in the world he really wanted, by husband never really liked being married and he'd be away from home — out with the boys he said — nearly every night.

When I told him I was going to have a baby, I think he was really mad, because I guess he was afraid of being tied down, but he hasn't ever let himself be tied down by that any more than he did before.

I've tried every way I could to make the kind of home for him that might make any husband happy, but he was never interested, and finally he came right out and said he wanted to be free.

We're not divorced yet, but I suppose we will be some day.

Since the baby and I left, we've been living with my parents, but I'm going to have to get another place to live because they aren't happy about having us here. They feel cramped for space and that it makes their living more expensive, even though I give them half of the little bit of money my husband sends me out of his pay each week.

It's an awful thing to feel you have no place to go. Have you any ideas about what I should do?

MRS. H. N.

Dear Mrs. H. N.:

It doesn't sound to me as though your present financial situation would be sufficient to finance a separate home for yourself and your baby.

Why don't you tell your mother you'd be perfectly willing to set up your own place if you could afford it and then ask her if she'd like to make it possible for you to work for awhile to earn toward that purpose by taking care of the baby during the day.

Since her attitude certainly doesn't seem all it should be, it may be, of course, that she would feel very put upon to be asked to do this. So if she refuses, or you feel that, even though she might agree, friction might develop after the plan got under way, go to the local Family Service agency in your town and get them to help you with the problem.

It's likely that there's some place where young mothers who must work can leave their babies to be taken care of while they're on the job, and they can give you all the information you'd need to make such an arrangement for yourself — and help you do it.

Once you've found work, tell your parents exactly what you'll be earning and ask them if they prefer that you save for this possible place of your own or if they'd rather you increased the sum you're already giving them to take care, so far as possible, of any expense they are now under because of your living with them.

Personally, I would think it far better for you to go out on your own just as soon as possible than to stay where you feel unwelcome, but it might help keep the relationship between yourself and your parents an agreeable one if you made them feel you were considering their needs in your plans.

Parochial Pupils Get Free Time

One day out, one day in, a three day weekend then back again is the tale of good fortune of pupils at St. Aloysius school.

The school was closed Thursday in honor of Ascension Thursday, a holy day of obligation for Catholics. Pupils only were required to mark the occasion by attending a special 9 a. m. high mass.

They'll be back to school again today, but only for one day. After the regular weekend recess, they'll have Monday off too.

Reason for this stroke of good fortune was the day off promised pupils by Bishop Cletus Benjamin on the occasion of his annual parish visitation and confirmation Apr. 30.

At that time, the Rev. William M. Begley decided to give pupils Monday off, as May procession is Sunday and first communion tomorrow.

TAXPAYERS GAIN GROUND IN DISPUTE

Attorney Cites Doubts Held by Bonding Counsel

CANDIDATES ADDRESS AMITY LEAGUE

The Amity township taxpayers league has made progress in its fight against having a new Daniel Boone jointure secondary school located near Birdsboro, a Reading attorney told township residents at a Taxpayers league meeting Thursday night in Amityville.

John E. Ruth, counsel for the league in the 10 months dispute over the school site, added that he felt the Amity school directors "have done everything they could" to prove their point to other directors of the jointure. Ruth said, however, the time has not yet come "when legal action is imperative."

The attorney recapped the fact that bonding counsel has expressed discontent with the jointure site wrangle and has cited the fight as a possible block to bond financing. He cited that as a point in Amity's favor.

Also, he said an opinion poll of Amity township shows that the Taxpayers league does properly represent the feeling of the township in opposition to the site.

* * *

IN OTHER business, the league president, John C. Karst, introduced candidates for positions on the school board and the board of supervisors.

Mark E. Walter, Republican, and John E. Sloat, incumbent Democrat, each presented philosophies on school operation. A letter was read from a third school board candidate who could not be present, Ray E. Feick, Monocacy station.

Dr. Joseph Brewer was appointed program chairman of the league.

Attempts are being made to schedule the controversial film, "Operation Abolition," at the next league meeting, June 8, said Mrs. Victor R. Bieber, league officer. It is hoped, also, that Richard Bauer, chairman of the Berks county Planning commission, will be present.

Modern Manners

By CAROLYN HAGNER SHAW

WHEN TO ANNOUNCE THE ENGAGEMENT

This letter, from a young lady is quite interesting because many other young adults face the same problem. She writes:

My boyfriend and I, both 19 years of age, are planning to become engaged soon. We want quite a large wedding and feel that a year will be necessary to make proper preparations for the wedding itself, and also to make our financial status more secure.

However, some of my friends have told me that the proper length of an engagement should be six months, or less. I thought perhaps you could help us with this problem, as we are anxious to do everything right."

Frankly, the friends are right in that six months are usually allowed between the announcement of the engagement and the wedding. It may be a period of three or four months; this also is perfectly proper. Actually, there is no rigid rule, but common sense comes into it.

If you announce an engagement a year before the marriage ceremony is to take place, many things can happen. A year is a long time. Of course you know this won't happen to you, but young people often find, after a few months, that they just aren't as suited to each other as they had first believed.

If the engagement has already been formally announced, it is difficult to explain to relatives and friends. If no announcement has been made, the couple does not have the embarrassment of admitting that they made a mistake.

There really should be no embarrassment, but there always is! Isn't it better to find out before marriage—rather than after — that it just won't work?

Why not wait six months before announcing your engagement? During this time you can learn more about each other. When you do take the step of formally letting your friends know the good news, you will be sure—and so much happier.

Gentle suggestion: A large wedding is very nice, if you can afford it. But, remember, it is not worth breaking up the budget in order to have it. Nothing is more impressive than a small dignified ceremony, with relatives and friends joining together afterwards to celebrate. Starting off in debt for a big function, really doesn't make much sense, does it?

* * *

QUESTION: When I was a small child I was badly bitten by a dog. I have never been able to get over it, and am deathly afraid of dogs of all kinds. Several friends of mine, who ask me to visit them, have dogs. I always refuse their invitations because of this. I'm ashamed of this fear, but I can't help it. How can I explain it to them?

Miss H.V.S.

ANSWER: Be perfectly frank about it. You will not be doing the wrong thing if you tell them the truth and ask them if they will shut their dogs up when you visit them. I know it is difficult for you to do this, but it's better than having people think you don't appreciate their offers of hospitality.

Psychiatrists Say 'Stinging Blow' Can Sometimes Salvage Neurotics

CHICAGO (AP) — The "stinging blow" that puts mischievous children back on the track is useful in curing phobias and other quirks in some mental patients, a psychiatrist said today.

But in psychiatry the stinging blow is a more subtle form of punishment — like a deliberate boosting of the doctor's fee or refusal to see the patient again until he deals with a problem he has been unwilling to face.

Dr. Ian Stevenson, professor and chairman of the department of neurology and psychiatry at the University of Virginia School of Medicine, Charlottesville, said both immediate rewards and punishments have roles in mental therapy.

He calls the treatment "active psychotherapy." It is a positive incentive technique in which the further useful treatment.

Psychiatrists generally use an entirely passive type treatment. They try by persuasion or by explanation to make patients aware of certain self rewards that changed behavior will bring.

In nine completed experiments, Stevenson said, the use of rewards or punishments brought the desired results in eight instances. He said of his cases:

"The mere proposal of a new incentive rarely succeeded in changing the patient's behavior. No change occurred until the patient had experienced the application of the incentive. This shouldn't surprise anyone who has noticed that sometimes misbehaving children respond to gentle urgings and sometimes only to a stinging blow."

Stevenson told psychiatrists attending the annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association he has ridden on elevators with patients afraid to take elevator rides.

He offered to eliminate his fee entirely for several sessions if one passive woman patient would "talk back" to the mother-in-law who was driving her toward nervous collapse.

He refused to continue treatment of another woman with a phobia against automobiles unless she would practice driving again and finally drive through traffic alone to his office.

A study of numerous cases of recovery from psychoneurosis without treatment led Stevenson into the experiments.

The study showed, he said, a psychoneurotic reaction once established tends to persist until the patient has a new experience that modifies the reaction.

Such as one 34-year-old woman automobile driver who suffered head injury in an accident. Her reaction was to develop a severe neurosis against driving again. When necessary, she would ride anxiously with friends. But one day she had to make an emergency trip and no one was available to take her. She drove herself, and thereafter her fears of cars declined rapidly.

Hooting Crowds Greet Council Opening In Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Kenya Thursday moved another clamorous step toward independence from Britain, opening its multiracial legislative council while police held off thousands of howling African demonstrators.

Gov. Sir Patrick Renison told the new Colonial Ministry—which Tom Mboya's Kenya African National Union has refused to join—that he believes Kenya can emerge as an independent nation where all races can live without fear.

* * *

But it was the noisiest council opening Kenya ever had. Followers of Jomo Kenyatta hooted the introduction of ministerial reports inside while outside several thousand clamored for his release.

The government has refused to free Kenyatta, former leader of the Mau Mau antiwhite terrorists. Mboya's party is pledged to boycott the government until it does.

In London, worried Parliament members claimed there has been a revival of the Mau Mau underground movement and urged the government to stamp it out.

* * *

Worried Kenya white settlers, shocked over the slaying of the wife of one settler last week, also claimed Mau Mau terrorism is again stalking the colony.

Strong police guards surrounded the Parliament buildings inside a ring of barbed wire barricades as Renison arrived. Armed riot squads stood by at a discreet distance.

Members of a minority party, the Kenya African Democratic Union, are the only Negro representatives in the new colonial government. Mboya's group won most seats of any Negro party in last February's election, 16 of the 33 seats reserved for Africans in the 53-seat legislature.

Salinger Says Kennedy Asks 'Understanding'

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Thursday the Kennedy administration favored a free flow of information but also was dedicated to the national security.

In commenting on President Kennedy's recent suggestion that newspaper editors consider national security when deciding what to print, Salinger said: "The President is not recommending voluntary censorship but rather is asking for an understanding of the problems of national security on the part of the editors."

Salinger also announced plans for the establishment in New York City of a foreign newspaper center to facilitate the flow of information and background for foreign reporters on key issues.

The press secretary spoke to high school editors and visiting newsmen at St. Bonaventure High School's Press Day.

Little Power Shift Expected In State Primary Election

HARRISBURG (AP) — Whatever happens in next Tuesday's election, it can't imperil Democratic control of Pennsylvania's 210-member House of Representatives.

That party's ratio is presently 108 to 98 Republicans, with four vacancies to be filled at the municipal primaries. Three of them are Republican vacancies in Republican strongholds, with the lone Democratic gap in Philadelphia counnty's 7th Legislative district.

Political chartists in the State capital expect the candidates to run true to form, with Republicans succeeding Republicans and Democrats retaining seats they formerly held.

* * *

The same pattern is expected in the 16th Congressional district, although the Democratic contender, Mrs. Kathy Zimmerman Vanderslice, is waging a spirited campaign. She is opposed by former Congressman John C. Kunkel. Both live in Harrisburg.

Here is the lineup for the vacant seats in the state house of representatives:

Allegheny county (17 district)—James A. Esler, Republican of Natrona Heights, opposing Thomas N. Walsh, 38, Democrat, of Fox Chapel, an assistant Allegheny county district attorney. (For seat of former House Republican Leader Willard F. Agnew Jr., deceased).

* * *

Montgomery county (3rd district)—Edwin G. Holl, Republican of Lansdale, opposed by Charles A. Dasch, 37, Democrat of Pottstown, a chemical worker and union local secretary who was nominee in 1960 — for seat vacated by Floyd K. Brenninger, Republican.

Philadelphia county (7th District)—James W. Greenlee, 28, Democrat of Philadelphia, city Democratic committeeman and Temple Law school Senior, running against Louis D. Apothaker, Republican, of West Philadelphia. Contest is for term of late Rep. Francis X. Muldowney, Democrat.

* * *

Wyoming county—Mrs. Elizabeth S. Wynd, Republican of Tunkhannock RD 3, running for the seat of her late husband, James Wynd Jr., who died in Harrisburg during the current legislative session. Her opponent is Benton H. Whipple, Democrat of Laceyville.

The State Senate is evently divided between 25 Democrats and 25 Republicans. There are no vacancies.

With no Statewide candidates or issues on the ballot, what interest the election has generated centers in the 16th Congressional district contest.

The matters before the electorate cover a wide range, from the election of local and county governments to a referendum on horse racing in Washington county. Citizens of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh will vote on permitting hotels to engage in Sunday sales of liquor.

In Pittsburgh, the mayoralty contest has stirred only mild interest because most of the names belong to relative newcomers to politics. Mayor Joseph M. Barr, who succeeded to the position when Gov. Lawrence relinquished it two and a half years ago, is running in this year's municipal elections for a full four-year term.

Scranton and 22 other major cities of Pennsylvania also are nominating and electing new local governments in the 1961 balloting.

Judges of Common pleas, Orphans and County courts will be nominated in about half of the State's 67 counties next Tuesday. This is the only contest in which candidates may cross-file and run for the nomination of both parties. Many have done that.

The wet-dry issue, involving sale of beer or liquor or State stores, is on the ballot of 57 boroughs or townships in 32 counties.

* * *

School jointure proposals, bond issues, election of county row officers, and other lesser matters also will be on the ballot.

A total of 5,546,696 citizens have qualified to vote in next Tuesday's primary, but the percentage of vote cast is expected to be extremely small because of the absence of Statewide candidates and the lack of hot issues.

The 9069 polling places will be open primary election day from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Balancing Far East Scales

The division of forces between the Communist Chinese and the anti-Communist or uncommitted nations of the Far East is shown on this map. Although the Reds do not have such an outstanding advantage, their strategy has been to nibble away at the free nations, first North Viet Nam, now Laos. United States air bases (stars) put planes within effective striking distance of any part of the Asian mainland.

Vietnamese Cheer Johnson; Security Agents are Worried

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was given loud and warming cheers by Vietnamese Thursday night as he freely mixed with welcoming crowds, shaking hands in Texas campaign style and exchanging shouts of "hoan ho" (long life).

The vice president, on his first Southeast Asian stop of a good-will tour, held one small boy high in the air and then returned him to his mother, instructing the translator: "Tell her she has a mighty brave son there."

* * *

To the despair of security agents, the tall Texan, radiating charm and friendliness, stopped the motorcade five times to hop out and shake hands with crowds displaying cardboard American flags.

* * *

The vice president and his wife, Lady Bird, attended a buffet supper later at the old Majestic Hotel attended by 120 American officials and wives.

It was at this hotel, at the riverside end of Saigon's main tree-lined avenue, that the famous Washington hostess Perle Mesta barely escaped injury from a howling mob of demonstrators during a world tour in 1955. She was trapped in her room until the invaders were persuaded to leave.

Johnson descended to the lobby after the supper and crossed the boulevard where he again shook hands with a waiting crowd of about 300 Vietnamese.

The vice president has a two-hour conference later Friday with President Ngo Dinh Diem at his palace on ways of bolstering South Viet Nam against Communist guerrillas.

* * *

The vice president brought a cheering promise that President Kennedy is determined to give Diem powerful support in his fight against the guerrillas.

* * *

All of Saigon's 2,000 police and substantial army, marine and paratrooper units were out in force. They gave President Kennedy's special envoy military honors and tight security protection on his arrival for an important round of talks with Diem on strengthening the defense against Communist subversion.

Three bands blared along the parade route. A triumphal arch specially erected for the occasion blazed with banners calling for United States-Vietnamese unity in liberty.

"It was a very exciting experience and one I will treasure," Johnson told his official hostess, Maj. Ngo Dinh Nhu, sister-in-law of the president. "You are warm, friendly people. It speaks well for affection the Vietnamese have for our country."

* * *

The two vice presidents talked with students, members of the youth corps and children. If there were members of the Vietcong Communist group on hand they made no visible show.

Johnson jovially signed dozens of autographs and gave away signed passes to the Senate gallery in Washington even as security forces remained on full alert.

Johnson introduced Kennedy's sister and brother-in-law, Jean and Stephen Smith, during his arrival speech. They said they were here as a mark of the President's special interest in Viet Nam.

"As we go among your leaders and congressmen and meet your people our words and prayers look forward to the day when peace will reign supreme."

EISENHOWER ASKS END OF CRITICISM

Former President Cites Series Of Crises

EX-CABINET MEMBERS MEET IN GETTYSBURG

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Thursday the country is in a series of crises and this is not the time to criticize President Kennedy's foreign policy.

After a five-hour meeting with former officials of his administration, Eisenhower said Republicans are reserving the right to question Kennedy's decisions in foreign affairs.

"We are in a series of crises and it is not the time for divisive voices to be heard in the country," the ex-president said.

* * *

Eisenhower met with 20 of his former Cabinet members and aides at his Gettysburg office. He told an informal news conference on the steps outside that while the Republicans intend to be, as he put it, "completely bipartisan" on international matters at this time, they do not intend to be hesitant about criticizing Kennedy administration domestic moves.

* * *

With Ezra Taft Benson, former secretary of agriculture, standing at his side, Eisenhower was asked what the group thinks of the farm program presented by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. Freeman has proposed that farmers be permitted to draft their own program, subject to a congressional veto.

"This group left no doubt that we don't like it," Eisenhower said, grinning broadly.

* * *

The former president said he had asked Cabinet members and other officials to meet with him to discuss the political scene, both international and domestic. He said the conferees wanted to make up their minds about how the country is going and what to do about it.

Eisenhower said he and his advisers want the Republicans to take a constructive and not destructive attitude. He said the group probably will meet again.

* * *

In response to a question, Eisenhower said the conferees do not consider themselves in the same light as the Democratic Advisory Council which, before Kennedy's election, issued policy statements that largely were ignored by the Democratic congressional leaders.

"We plan nothing like that," the former president said. "There will be no attempt to dictate to the party."

* * *

A crowd of about 75 persons, mostly students of Gettysburg College, where his office is located, stood in a pelting rain for nearly two hours to applaud the former president when he appeared on the steps, surrounded by the advisers of his administration.

Cuban Embassy Officials Ask Mexico Asylum

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Two top diplomats of the Cuban Embassy defected Thursday and asked for asylum in Mexico.

They said they resented "being used as Communist agents and the breaking point was (Prime Minister) Fidel Castro's crackdown on religion."

$252 MILLION IS ADDED TO SCHOOL BILL

Senate Committee Sends Measure To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) The Senate Labor Committee approved a $2.55-billion school aid bill Thursday and pointed it toward a floor battle starting next Tuesday.

The committee added $252 million to President Kennedy's recommendations but did not change the purposes for which the money could be used. The funds would be available for public school construction or teacher salaries, or both, during the next three years.

Sponsors did not claim White House approval of the higher spending figure, but they indicated confidence that Kennedy would accept it.

All 10 committee Democrats and two Republicans voted for the measure, which includes a newly adopted formula for alloting money among the states. Opposing them in the 12-2 lineup were Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Dirksen told reporters he was against the original bill and was even more opposed "now that it has been increased more than $200 million."

The measure was discussed at a conference of Senate and House GOP leaders and Dirksen said Republicans will try to trim it down with amendments on the Senate floor.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, said there will not be "any tremendous Republican support" for the bill, but its Democratic sponsors seemed confident they have the votes for passage.

Debate starts Tuesday in the Senate. A House Education subcommittee approved a $3.3-billion, three-year program last Tuesday, but action in that chamber is not scheduled until later.

Police Save Bomber From Mob Lynching

ALGIERS Algeria (AP)—Nineteen persons were injured, three seriously, when a nationalist rebel tossed a grenade into a cafe Thursday in a suburb of Algiers. The terrorist was caught by passers-by and saved from possible lynching by police intervention.

Geneva Meeting on Laos Awaits Solid Cease-Fire

GENEVA (AP) — U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk firmly passed the word to other foreign ministers Thursday night that he will not sit down at the conference on Laos Friday unless he has solid proof of a cease-fire.

As hours ticked by without certification of such a cease-fire from the Indian-Canadian-Polish control commission it seemed unlikely that the 14-nation conference would get under way on schedule Friday, despite some earlier optimism.

The top commission members returned to Vientiane, the capital of the royal Laotian government, from a visit to the rebel headquarters apparently without having secured a detailed agreement.

However, the commission late Thursday night dispatched a report—its nature unspecified—to British and Soviet representatives in Bangkok, Thailand. This report then would have to be transmitted to London and Moscow and distributed to delegates here.

Government and rebel representatives met again—the government consenting for the first time to go to Ban Namone, deep in rebel territory—but were unable to agree on further cease-fire talks. The rebels insisted that negotiations on formation of a new government as well as on a cease-fire be held there. The government insisted that political talks be held in its own territory.

But the Chinese Communists were busy spreading the word that fighting had indeed stopped.

Peiping radio said, "Fighting has stopped on the Laotian fronts," and, "People of the world over are eagerly expecting a peaceful solution."

Informed sources in London also said earlier they understood organized fighting in the Southeast Asian kingdom has in fact sputtered to a stop. But they added some sporadic clashes "still have to be regularized."

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, the key man in the Vientiane government, reported Thursday night that rebels still were shelling his troops in the Tha Thom area northeast of Vientiane.

The Soviet news agency Tass quoted the rebel "national military council" as charging that Boun Oum's American planes continually violated rebel territory in the Sam Neua and Plaines des Jarres areas. One fighter plane strafed rebel troops it said.

Secretary of State Rusk's statement that he would not participate in the conference unless there is notice of a real cease-fire, only confirmed what American spokesmen have been saying all along.

But it caused a change of the atmosphere here where it was widely assumed through the day that the conference would get under way on time Friday.

American sources said Rusk was not merely trying to win some obscure debating point; he believes discussions on establishing a neutral Laos could not be successful under the threat of more fighting.

In the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina the Western powers found themselves committed to negotiate while Communist-led troops won a resounding victory over the French at Dien Bien Phu.

American sources said they were convinced they had the backing of the British and French to avoid a similar mistake this time.

Rusk, it was reported, seems to think that actual negotiations may not get under way before next week.

Four members of the 14-nation conference still were not represented here — India, Thailand, Cambodia and South Viet Nam. The Laotian government of Boun Oum also is not yet represented.

However, India's Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon left Bombay for Geneva, declaring conditions were more propitious than in 1954 because the United States and the Soviet Union "realize that Laos is a comparatively small issue" among the many things they have to settle.

Saturn Booster Passes Tests

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The first Saturn flight booster underwent its third and final tied-down firing at the Marshall Space Flight Center Thursday.

The test was very successful, said Karl Heimburg, director of the center's test division.

The booster — designed to be first stage of the free world's biggest space ship—was fired for 111 seconds. The eight engines developed 1,315,000 pounds of thrust.

The flight booster, technically known as FA1, will now enter a period of extended checkouts at the center's quality division to verify its flight worthiness.

Later this summer it will be shipped by barge to Cape Canaveral, Fla., for an actual flight with two dummy upper stages.

Howard S. Schanely, 49 East Philadelphia avenue, is exhibiting a fluorite and calcite crystal found in a dolomite quarry near Rochester, N. Y., about 1954, and a black spinel crystal discovered in Lime Crest, N. J.

Luther Bieber, Amityville, and David Stahl, 223 North Charlotte street, Pottstown, also have displays on exhibit.

THE MUSEUM is open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.; 9 a. m. to 12 noon tomorrow and from 2 to 5 p. m. on Sunday.

Quartz, the most common of all minerals, is well represented in the exhibit. One specimen is a mass of iron-stained crystals radiating out from common centers to form a myriad of rosettes. The other is a mass of shorter, thicker crystals, each of which grew from its own point of origin.

Also displayed are examples of the famous "Herkimer Diamonds" from New York state, polished and faceted minerals, calcite and ores such as copper, franklinite, barite, galena, beryl, emeralds.

One unusual specimen is amber, which is a fossil form of resin. The unusual aspect of this display is the tiny fly imprisoned in the amber.

Inside You And Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.

This Business of Blood

ARE YOU spending valuable dollars to stock up on rich red blood, only to find your stock as watered down as ever?

Blood cell manufacturing is big business—inside your body, too. Raw materials have to come in through the intestine's main gate and flow continously into the production set-up.

Dr. Fern

Your blood thins out when production slows or the need increases.

Iron, vitamins, protein and other essential raw materials may be left off the menu and never shipped. Without stomach juice's special pass, they may be stopped at the intestine's front gate. An intestinal traffic jam may detour shipments past the main gate and prevent their arriving at the production line.

Temporary Shutdown

Inside the plant, a broken-down liver may not be able to store raw materials until they're needed. Alongside the liver, the spleen—Chairman of the Board—may swell and order a temporary shutdown.

Infection or poisoning may leave the bone marrow too pooped to participate in blood cell production. Criminal cancer elements may invade the marrow and tie up the works.

Excessive waste may set production quotas too high for ordinary marrow. You may have to replace blood gushing from a large artery or replace small losses such as a heavy menstrual flow.

You may not see the lost blood if it's used to feed intestinal hookworms or if you bleed internally. Oddly-shaped red cells often explode inside your blood vessels, leaving you with pale anemia and yellow jaundice.

Pinpoints Trouble

Like an efficiency expert, your doctor examines you and your blood cells to pinpoint the trouble and prescribe a remedy. Pale, iron-lacking cells hardly resemble the large dark cells that suggest troubled stomach juices. Other tests may uncover hookworms, hemorrhage and other hidden causes of anemia.

No good businessman purchases extra loads of costly raw materials unless he's certain they're needed. Why should you?

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of The Mercury.

A flow of lava inched down the northeastern slope but the nearest villages, miles down the mountainside, were not in danger.

Bell Executives Say Firm Value Is Up $20 Million

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Two executives of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania testified Thursday that the total book value of the company at the end of last year was $1,247,277,650.

This represented an increase of $20,114,040 between Sept. 30 and the end of the year, they testified at a hearing conducted by the State Public Utility commission.

Artificial Blindness

MIDHURST, England (AP)—When a small oil-fired boiler exploded in front of him at nearby Trotton, 55-year-old George Ayling thought he had been blinded.

He blundered about in panic, stubbing his toes and bruising his shins.

"I could not see," he said later—"then it turned out it was only my glasses blackened by soot."

Blaney Cleared In 3 Charges, Held On Fourth

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Richard Blaney, the State's star witness in the John B. Rich burglary trials in Pottsville, was cleared of three criminal charges Thursday, but held on a fourth, that of extortion.

The 26 year old Blaney was freed by Magistrate William Bleshman of charges of burglary, larceny and conspiracy in connection with the theft of a mink coat. An alleged accomplice refused to testify.

The extortion charge was lodged after Blaney allegedly collected $500 from Mrs. Sylvia Friedenberg on the promise to get her husband, Charles, out of Moyamensing prison. He had been sent there for receiving stolen goods and parole violation.

Mrs. Friedenberg testified she gave Blaney $500 on March 27, after he had telephoned her, saying he had connections which could release her husband. He is still in jail.

* * *

Blaney was accused along with James Mattock, 20, of breaking into a store Jan. 12 and stealing a mink coat valued at $2000. Mattock was held without bail for court. Blaney will have a further hearing May 19 on the extortion charge.

Blaney was the main prosecution witness at the trials of Robert Poulson, John Berkery and Ralph Staino Jr., accused of the burglary at the home of Rich, head of a coal-mining firm. All three were convicted.

Blaney's older brother, Vincent, also accused of the burglary, was killed last August and his iron-weighted body thrown into the sea.

Ladies Auxiliary Donor Club Has Luau In Hawaiian Setting At Brookside CC

By ESTHER GRAY
(Mercury Society Editor)

A delightful Hawaiian luau was given for Pottstown hospital auxiliary Donor club Thursday at Brookside country club.

Mrs. John Leveille Sr. and Mrs. Claude Shelton, their arms heaped with colorful leis, welcomed the arriving ladies to the "island" and placed leis around their shoulders.

The dining room was a profusion of Spring flowers. Each table was centered with arrangements of pineapples and other fruits. The soft strains of music of Hawaii were a pleasant background for the animated conversation of the guests.

Waitresses in gaily printed mumus placed glasses of golden pineapple juice at each place. Flowers atop the ladies bonnets completed the festive scene.

Luncheon included green, green asparagus salad with hearts of palm dressing; breasts of chicken on rice and baked bananas. A fluff of cocoanut topped the chocolate sundaes served for dessert.

Frothy topping for the gala affair was a performance by songsters Bonnie and Harry Carlyle. Songs from Broadway shows, a bit of dancing and miming by the young husband and wife completely captivated the audience.

Mrs. Harry Hoffman gave the invocation. Mrs. Potter spoke a few words of greeting. Mrs. Sam H. Keiser Sr., ways and means chairman introduced Mrs. Pollock.

Mrs. Pollock spoke of the rewards of sharing and said "donor means giving until it makes you feel good."

She spoke of the part her aides played in arranging the luncheon; her co-chairman, Catherine Endy; Mrs. Keiser, Mrs. Herbert Houck, Mrs. Stanley Gross, Mrs. Raymond Schumacher, Mrs. John Basco, Mrs. Murray Gulack, Mrs. Karl Schumacher, Mrs. John Schulz, Mrs. Leveille, Mrs. Shelton and Mrs. Abe Pollock.

Mrs. Schulz arranged the program and Mrs. Leveille, Mrs. Shelton and Mrs. Abe Pollock arranged table centerpieces and flowers.

Miss Endy reported $1725 realized to date on the donor project. She announced all expenses were underwritten by unnamed benefactors and that the fruit in the centerpieces would be taken to the hospital for use there.

Surprise event of the afternoon was presentation of a silver tea set belonging to the late Mrs. David Pollock to the auxiliary in her memory. Her daughter, Mrs. Edwin Orr, Philadelphia, presented the set, a gift from Mrs. Pollock's family.

Freedom Is Key Word For Comfortable Sleep

Freedom is a key word in American life? It's a key word in the American home, too? Freedom to move around in ample space; freedom to have a feeling of privacy from time to time; freedom to have plenty of room for comfortable sleeping.

In reference to the last point, bedding manufacturers are excited about the new trend to supersize bedding.

Cleanliness Important At N. Carolina Ball

Now it's official that what you wear is not so important as being clean.

At the North Carolina State Inaugural Ball, the only dress rules were that non-dancing male spectators had to wear suits and ties—and "look as if they'd washed recently."

Mrs. John Zeigler Discusses Topic At Meeting of Transfiguration ULCW

Mrs. John Zeigler presented the topic "The Lutheran Church in Changing America" at a meeting of the United Lutheran church women of Transfiguration at the home of Mrs. Edgar Chrisemer, Burdan drive.

The topic was a study of the role of the church in the midst of individuals, families and communities caught up in the rapid changes that characterize modern American life.

The group then discussed how the church can win the battle against materialism, apathy, lack of courage and imagination. Mrs. Chrisemer was devotional leader for the evening.

A brief business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Luther A. Rife. Mrs. Rife opened the session with prayer in the form of "a thought for the day" from a Lutheran woman's magazine.

Mrs. Chrisemer announced members would participate in the book collection for the Penn Village library as a Spring project. All members were asked to bring discarded books to the parish house.

Mrs. Harry Truman Provided New Soap

First ladies have their little idiosyncrasies just like everyone else. Mrs. Harry Truman's, for example, was new soap.

When she "ran" the White House, she insisted that a new bar of soap be placed in a powder room every time it was used, and also in each bathroom if there were house guests. Thus, all guests at the Presidential mansion could enjoy the little luxury of washing with fresh, unused soap.

Versatile Metal Hose Serves Many Purposes

A metal hose that fits any bathtub, washtub, or kitchen sink faucet is fine for after-shampoo rinsing — and also makes a perfect portable shower in a vacation cottage.

Made of rust-proof chrome, it has a leak-proof, flexible, 42-inch extension hose which assures a continuous flow of water —even when bent to reach "difficult" spots.

Modern Plumbing Cited For Bath House Close

Latest to give up this once-flourishing business is Brooklyn, New York. The last of its five bath houses, at one time a center of suds - and - sociability for 1000 customers a day, recently closed its doors forever.

Built in the days when cold water flats were the rule rather than the exception, this bath house was washed down the drain due to the tremendous improvement in modern plumbing throughout the homes and apartments of Brooklyn.

Anxiety Is Considered A Cause of Insomnia

Insomnia has never killed anyone, but its debilitating effect can be felt by the sufferer as much as ulcers or anemia. Among the principal causes for this thief of sound sleep is our own anxiety about personal problems.

The cure, easier said than done, is to think about unemotional and uncontroversial things when we go to bed.

Of course, having a comfortable, well-made mattress and springs will help to bring on a relaxing frame of mind.

Innovation in Cribs For Growing Children

A crib with a plastic blackboard panel footboard, complete with chalk ledge, provides wonderful entertainment for a tot. When the crib is outgrown, the blackboard can be hung on a wall.

To erase, wipe the board with a sponge wrung out of soap or detergent suds and rinses. At the same time, suds the white enamel crib frame to ensure a spotless environment.

Area Luther League Officers Installed During Candlelight Service in Church

Joah Herb opened the session by reading the Versicles. Carol Renninger read Psalm 19. The first lesson was read by Kathleen Erb prior to an anthem sung by the Junior and Senior High league.

After the second lesson read by Joan Standhart, Ted Bathurst, president of the Trappe district Luther league spoke on how time should be spent.

Travis-Bey Bombs Bear Hurlers in Phantom Win

Ted Travis-Bey clobbered a double, triple, and homer to pace Phoenixville high school to an 8-3 win over Boyertown on the loser's diamond Thursday.

Phoenixville broke loose with four runs in the top of the sixth to gain win number six in the Ches-Mont League. The Phantoms have suffered three set backs.

Boyertown had only four hits in the game called after six innings because of rain. Winning chucker Don Ellis gave up a double and single to Carl Houp. Ron Houck doubled and Ken Smith singled.

TRAVIS - BEY gave Phoenixville an early lead with his roundtripper off loser Houck in the top of the third. Boyertown came back with a three run surge in the bottom of the inning.

Tim Schott reached base on an error. Houp followed with a single. Both men came home when Houck poked an Ellis delivery for a double. Smith then came through with a single that scored Houck with the third run.

Phoenix salted away the win in the sixth. Frank Cook singled, and Ellis reached base on an error. Travis-Bey drove home both men with a double. Joe Costira singled to right and the ball got through the rightfielder. Costira followed Travis-Bey all the way home on the play.

EIGHT TEAMS ENTERED FOR COMING YEAR

Final Organization Meeting Slated May 22

Some 11th-hour efforts on the part of local baseball people Thursday saved the Church baseball league for another season.

League Director Morrell Grigg made the announcement Thursday. Eight teams — providing Coventry Brethren reenters the fold—will compete in the circuit this season.

Local entries include St. James, St. Aloysius-St. Gabriel's, and Emmanuel-First Baptist.

Other entries for the coming season will be Kimberton Lutheran, the defending kingpin, Sacred Heart (Royersford), Colebrookdale Chapel, Coventryville-Cedarville, and Coventry Brethren.

IN ACCORDANCE with the new announcement, the league will hold another organizational meeting Tuesday, May 22 at Borough hall.

All teams who wish to enter must send a representative to that meeting.

This is a direct reversal of the outlook held for the league as late as three days ago, when the Recreation commission asserted that the league could not operate with less than four local entries.

At that time, only St. James and St. Gabriel-St. Aloysius among local teams were entered.

DICK HATFIELD — of Emmanuel — had been attempting to organize a team without much success.

At that point, Grigg and Shellenberger got surprise assistance from Bob Kurtz, a former player and now an umpire in the league, and several team managers from the outlying area, who requested that the league be allowed to operate with three local entries.

Emmanuel and First Baptist, who had been attempting to form separate teams, decided to pool their players and equipment.

This marks a return to the league of First Baptist, who competed as a joint entry with Trinity UCC back in the 1957 season.

THE COMMISSION gave its okay Thursday afternoon, and the league will operate as usual at Memorial park on diamond one.

Holdover teams from last year will thus be St. Gabriel's, St. James, Emmanuel, Coventryville, Kimberton and Coventry Brethren, should the latter decide to come in.

The league's problem was not sufficient teams, but sufficient local teams, and its resolution was hailed by longtime local fans, who recognized the league for what it represents—the last stand of adult baseball in Pottstown.

Pottstown High Game Rained Out

Rain Thursday forced postponement of the bulk of the schoolboy baseball games scheduled for Thursday afternoon, among them the Pottstown-Spring-Ford clash at Memorial park.

The two teams will play this afternoon at 3:30, weather permitting. The game is billed as the battle for the lead in the Ches-Mont league's Upper section.

Had the two played and Spring-Ford won Thursday however, the Rams and Trojans would have been tied for the lead.

Phoenixville however, played Boyertown, turning back the Berks countians, 9-3, and as such, stands poised to "back" into the division lead, should the Trojans bow to the Rams.

All efforts will be made to play the game today, since both Spring-Ford and the Trojans have three games scheduled next week.

The Point Spread . . .

Second Effort? Francis Tried for Third

By WARREN HOWARD
(Mercury Sports Writer)

JUST AS THOUGH THE LAST TWO Venzke Relay carnivals have been dominated by Kennett Square's Don Webster (with reservations), so the next two should be presided over by BVD-clad youth from Downingtown and Exeter.

Evidence that these two will be slugging it out for the sprint relays was brought to light last Wednesday night, when their respective coaches—Jim Sutton of Exeter and Charles Ax of Downingtown — announced blithely that their teams were composed entirely of Sophomores.

DON WEBSTER

And then there was the fact that these two foursomes just couldn't be touched, except by Kennett Square. And in one case, even the Blue Demons failed—in the 440-yard relay, with Downingtown setting a new record with Kennett second.

Of course, the fact that Kennett ran in a different heat no doubt had something to do with the final result. With a long lead entering the final leg, the great Webster didn't appear to be exactly "pushing it."

* * *

BUT THEN, HAD Webster and Downingtown anchorman Bill Pollock been dueling it out down the stretch, there was no doubt in the mind of anyone present—with the possible exception of Ax—that Kennett would have won.

The concensus was that Webster would have dispatched Pollock just as surely as he caught and lopped off Exeter's Gary Francis on the anchor leg of the mile relay sometime later in the program.

And probably no one in that crowd (estimated at 1500) realized just how much Francis—the Berks county sprint champ—wanted to hold off Webster. So intense was his desire, that when Webster went by on the backstretch, it spurred Francis to an almost superhuman effort.

It was too much of an effort. And Francis went tumbling head over tincup entering the last turn. He was beaten, but jumped up again, and came romping home second, though some 25 yards back. He had held a lead entering the lap.

* * *

IT ALSO WASN'T enough to hold off Downingtown's foursome in the final result. It ended with Kennett in first place, Downingtown second and Exeter third.

Before the race, Meet Director Dick Flannery had expressed the hope that Exeter could hold on through the first three laps, making a neat race of it for Webster—coming off a 47.3 anchor last Friday—and Francis, who has done 51 seconds.

And that's the way it happened, with the first three runners for either team taking turns holding short leads. But Francis forged into the lead when Sam Thomas and Webster juggled the baton momentarily, entering the final lap.

Francis was ahead by some five yards as Webster set out in pursuit, seemingly running easily, with that stride, which is only best described as like that of a prized trotter. Francis was literally running for his very life.

* * *

ONE CAN ONLY wonder what went through Francis' mind as the Kennett flash shot past. One only saw him attempt to lengthen his stride ever more. It was one of the most heroic races these jaded eyes have ever witnessed.

It causes one to hark back to the 1959 Penn Relays, when a pint-sized Michigan State miler (whose name now escapes) was attempting to hold off the late charge of Villanova's Ron Delany in the distance medley.

And as on Wednesday night, the Michigan State runner also was unsuccessful. And just as the efforts of the Michigan runner were lost on the Penn Relay crowd, so was Francis forgotten with the announcement of Webster's unofficial 48.2-second lap.

But then, why not? It was to see the Kennett speedster that those 1500 had braved the threat of rain, wasn't it? But in defeat, Francis' run must be included among those things which make track and field the great sport that it is.

OPEN FRIDAY EVENINGS

Nats Dump Bengals, 9-4 on Klaus Slam

DETROIT (AP)—Billy Klaus, a .09 hitter, smashed a grand slam home run that sparked the Washington Senators' biggest offensive show of the season Thursday in a 9-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Hot-hitting Gene Woodling and Dale Long also hit homers for the Senators, who climbed out of last place in the American League by splitting a four-game series with the first place Tigers.

The Tigers gave reliever Bill Fischer his first start of the season and the sinker ball specialist was in command for four innings. But the Senators loaded the bases on two singles and a walk with one out in the fifth.

Then Klaus, a light-hitting infielder who has had only four hits in 42 trips, lined the second grand slam of his career into the lower seats in right field.

The Tigers had built up a 3-0 lead against John Gabler before the Senators launched their attack. Marty Kutyna succeeded Gabler after four innings and picked up his second victory by restricting the Tigers to one run the rest of the way.

Ozzie Virgil, the first batter to face Kutyna, lined a pinch home run into the left field seats in the fifth inning. Kutyna gave up another single in the fifth and two more in the sixth, but settled down and did not allow a hit in the last three innings.

Jake Wood's speed got the Tigers in front by two runs. He singled to start the first and when Billy Bruton singled to center, Wood raced to third. The Senators caught Bruton in a rundown and Wood scored.

Wood drew a two-out walk in the third, stole second and came home on Bruton's single. Dick Brown drove in Detroit's third run with a fourth inning double, the last of seven hits off Gabler.

The Tigers, who've won seven of their last nine games, lead the idle second-place Yankees by 2½ games as the two teams prepare for a vital four-game series in New York this weekend.

Orioles Employ Twin Errors for 8-7 'Road' Edge

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles turned clutch hitting and five Minnesota errors into an 8-7 victory Thursday to take their three game series 2-1.

Although Steve Barber was driven to the showers in a three-hit, three - run outburst in the sixth, the Baltimore lefty got credit for the win. He is now 4-2.

The Twins counted twice in the third on singles by Billy Gardner and Lenny Green and a double by Don Mincher.

Baltimore evened the count in the fourth on two hits and an error. Brandt got on when Harmon Killebrew threw high to first. Two batters were retired, then Robinson singled to right and Triandos doubled to left, scoring Brandt and Robinson.

The Twins added another in the fifth on a homer by Mincher. Minnesota chased Barber with singles by Killebrew, Gardner and pinch hitter Ron Henry, coupled with a walk to Bob Allison.

Baltimore scored one more in the eighth when relief pitcher Paul Giel walked in a run after a hit and two walks. The Twins pulled within one in the eighth on Elmer Valo's pinch double to center, which scored Mincher.

Susquehanna Restocked With 2.2 Million Eels

HARRISBURG, (AP)—The State Fish commission said Thursday it has stocked 2.2 million elvers in the Susquehanna river and its tributaries in recent weeks.

The number of young eels released this year compares with the 200,000 stocked when the program began in 1957.

Dewey Sorenson, superintendent of hatcheries, said improved handling techniques are responsible for the increase. The elvers are shipped into the State from below the Conowingo reservoir in cooperation with the Maryland Fish commission.

'Ace' On 13th Aids 65 Round

Nagle Fires Record 1st Round for Lead in Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—British Open Champion Kel Nagle used a hole - in - one to shoot a record-tying 5-under-par 65 Thursday and take the first round lead in the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

The 40 - year - old Australian bagged the ace on the 13th hole—first in the tournament's 15 years—with a 195-yard two-iron blast.

It helped the big fellow, who has played poorly in five previous tournaments this year, and won only $1164.17, past perpetual favorite Arnold Palmer and National Amateur King Deane Beman, who had come in early with 68s.

Nagle's great round tied the tournament record set in 1946 by Ben Hogan and equalled three times the ensuing 14 years. The competitive record over the 7041-yard Colonial country club course is 64, set Wednesday by Doug Ford in a pro-amateur.

HOGAN ALSO had a 68 Thursday and tied Palmer and Beman for second place. The golf great from Fort Worth was playing in his 14th Colonial tournament. He has won five.

Seven players in the field of 57, bettered par. Doug Sanders, Bill Casper and Mike Souchak each registered a 69 to tie for fifth place. A par 70 was Bob Goalby.

"I never had a chance," Player said. "Every time I hit a bad shot I wound up in trouble. Sometimes you hit a bad shot but you recover; every time I hit one it wound up with an impossible lie."

* * *

NAGLE IS playing in his second Colonial tournament. Last year he tied for second place and won $2500 in his initial appearance, shooting 281 for 72 holes.

There were no bogeys on Nagle's card as he moved around the long course in 33-32. He started by birdying the first two holes, with a 4-foot putt on 1 and a 20-footer on 2.

He parred the remainder of the first nine and shot pars on the next three holes before banging the ace on 13.

Hogan was playing with Nagle and said "good shot," according to Nagle, who added, "and a bit of a laugh."

Nagle had a birdie on 18 where he drilled within 18 inches of the hole. His putting was terrific—he used only 25 in going around the course. Nagle said he had little trouble except a "couple of good scrambling pars" and was delighted to get the hole in one. It was the fourth in his golfing career.

Thursday's was not the best round the big Australian ever shot. He had a 62 at Hong Kong on a par 71 course.

Bill to Bring Professional Sports Under Anti-Trust Offered In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill which would declare professional football, baseball, hockey and basketball subject to antitrust laws but legalize many present practices was introduced Thursday by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

Hart said the measure would not affect such long-established customs as player draft, assignment of contracts and territorial agreements which have been questioned as possible antitrust violations.

He said the bill, co-sponsored by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., is an effort to resolve inequalities and confusion which have arisen in application of the antitrust laws to professional team sports.

He noted in a statement for the Senate that the Supreme Court has ruled that professional baseball is not subject to the antitrust law but that professional football is.

* * *

"THIS BILL would affirm our intention that the antitrust laws apply to professional sports, but exempting the agreements and practices of baseball, football, hockey and basketball which are essential and peculiar to the games," Hart said.

"These practices, developed over the years by those whose interests and imagination and money have brought the games to their present level, are essential to the conduct of these sports."

Hart said he thought Congress would be wise to "sketch broadly in outline of the application of the anti-trust laws to team sports and to establish identical positions under the law for the several team sports."

Presumably, the bill would operate to prevent mergers within a sport or common ownership that might reduce competition—problems which haven't arisen so far.

Hart is a former director of the Detroit Tigers baseball club and the Detroit Lions football company. He resigned both positions after his election as a Senator in 1958.

Berks Countians Top Hatfield Bill

Two Berks county Dutchmen will renew their rivalry when stock car action returns to Hatfield Speedway this Saturday evening, 8 o'clock. Last weekend, rain kayoed the Hatfield races for the fifth time in six weeks.

Jack Rudy, Reading, the defending point champion, and Freddy Adams, Kutztown, the current leader, will go at it tooth-and-nail when the green flag descends for the weekly presentation of motor mayhem.

Rudy, who won last year's crown with 627 points, will be riding the familiar orange - fendered 1937 Ford coupe, which is powered by a 1957 T-Bird mill. The car is owned by Walt Siwak, Newtown, Pa., garage owner.

Adams also pedals a 1937 Ford coupe, the black and white "eight ball" which is Mercury-powered. Adams has a five-race streak at Hatfield, winning the last four events in 1960 and the first feature this year.

They'll be opposed by a top-flight field, which includes Dick Havens, Doylestown; Tommy McAndrews, Allentown; Eddy Horn, Chalfont; Les Farley, Califon, N.J., and others.

The Bell Racing club strictly stock division, also idled by the spell of inclement weather, will be featured in the other half of the racing bill. Bobby Brack, Quakertown, is the current point leader.

Wildcats Shade Spring-Ford by 51-48 In Track

Spring-Ford High's fledgling thinclads captured four of the six firsts in the field events, but Owen J. Roberts won the dual meet, 51-48 on the Bucktown cinders.

He then placed second to the Wildcats' Damon Connors in the javelin throw, though he had never practiced with the spear. The javelin is not allowed at Spring-Ford by administration order.

Crayton won the 220-and 440-yard dashes in 24.0 and 54.0-seconds respectively, then broad jumped 19 feet, nine inches for his third first place of the day.

John Kerstetter won the 880-yard run in two minutes, 6.2 seconds, and pole vaulted 10 feet for another brace of Spring-Ford firsts.

Powell Sets New Tennis 'Record' At Kutztown SC

KUTZTOWN — Dick Powell, 1952 Pottstown High graduate and Kutztown State college tennis captain, has been credited with a "first" in the annals of Kutztown athletics.

Powell, a Senior, captured all six of his varsity matches this Spring, becoming the first to do so in the history of the college.

He has now won 10 straight matches in a streak that spans a pair of seasons.

All of Powell's victories came over State college opponents, with the exception of a single triumph over the No. 1 player of Delaware Valley Agricultural.

At present, he is waiting out an invitation to compete in the Middle Atlantic championships.

Powell won the Adult tennis tournament on The Hill school's Beech street courts last Summer, which was sponsored by the Recreation commission, and will direct the Pottstown Community camp this year.

He is studying public speaking and social studies, and expects to graduate next month.

Himsl Takes Over as Cub Head Man Again

CHICAGO (AP) — The manager less Chicago Cubs, gripped in a six-game losing streak, Thursday made their second "head coach" change of the season, restoring Vedie Himsl to the helm in place of Harry Craft. Himsl started the season as bossman of the 10-coach staff which Owner P. K. Wrigley has installed in preference to the traditional field manager.

Craft, who replaced Himsl April 24 as top man on the Cubs' tall totem pole, Friday takes over the Cubs' San Antonio affiliate in the Texas league. Rip Collins, erstwhile San Antonio leader, joins the Cub staff Sunday.

Two coaching regulars since the season started—Elvin Tappe and Bobby Adams—apparently passed up a chance to run the seventh-place Cubs and inherit their current 9-14 record.

WRIGLEY'S ORIGINALLY-announced plan called for rotation of head man on a sort of coach-of-the-month basis, but Thursday Tappe and Adams were quoted as preferring Himsl to return as head coach.

"Both felt," a club statement said, "that on the basis of his performance during the early games of the season, Vedie deserved another term at the job at this time."

Himsl, who led the Cubs to a 5-6 record for the first 11 games, was sent to San Antonio "to help get the young pitchers there off to a good start" when he was replaced as top Cub coach by Craft. Himsl was recalled from San Antonio on May 5.

* * *

THE CUB statement, apparently authorized by Wrigley or General Manager John Holland, explained that Craft's shift continued "the program of assigning major league coaches where their instructional specialties are needed most at any given time."

At San Antonio, Craft's assignment will "center on his ability in coaching outfielders and the fact that leading Cub outfield prospects are with the Texas league club." These include Bonus Baby Danny Murphy, Nelson Mathews and Craig Sorenson.

Collins, former St. Louis Cardinal and Cub first base star, will be making his first appearance as a Cub coach.

Goldie Holt, who started as a Cub coach, now is working in the Cub minor league field along with four other potential "head coaches" — three-time Cub Manager Charley Grimm, Verlon Walker, Fred Martin and Dick Cole.

LaSalle Favored In Two-Day MAC Track Title Meet

EASTON, Pa., (AP)—Defending Champions LaSalle and West Chester head a list of 24 colleges and universities competing Friday in the two day Middle Atlantic conference track and field championships.

Some 500 athletes will participate in the meet, starting with track trials. Finals in track and field both are scheduled for Saturday.

Competing in the University division are Bucknell, Delaware, Gettysburg, Lafayette, LaSalle, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, Rutgers, Temple, and St. Joseph's. St. Joseph's is regarded as having the best chance of defeating LaSalle.

West Chester is favored to defeat its rivals in the college division: Albright, Dickinson, F&M, Haverford, Hofstra, Juniata, Lycoming, PMC, Susquehanna, Swarthmore, Ursinus, Wagner and Upsala.

Bisons' Maloney 'Most Valuable'

NEW YORK (AP)—Phil Maloney, 33-year-old center of the Buffalo Bisons, was named the most valuable player in the American Hockey league for the 1960-61 season Thursday. He will receive the Leslie Cunningham plaque and a $300 bonus. He also received $300 for being named to the All-Star team.

Maloney got 22 points in the voting by the league's sports writers and radio and TV sportscasters.

The voting was on a 5-3-1 point basis. Malony received three first, two seconds and one third.

Maloney, playing his 13th season as a professional, scored 102 points with 37 goals and 65 assists. He is the second Buffalo player to win the most valuable honors. The other man was Ab DeMarco in 1950-51.

Palermo Dislike Of Leonard Told

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Philadelphia Fight Manager Frank (Blinky) Palermo made it clear Thursday he doesn't think much of a key government witness in the extortion conspiracy trial of himself and four others.

Palermo, who has had his share of brushes with the law before this, referred to ex-Hollywood Promoter Jackie Leonard.

Leonard, who previously testified he had been "scared to death" of threats from underworld characters, allegedly had extensive dealings in fight matters with Palermo.

"People that don't keep promises, you drop like a pancake," said Palermo in describing his relations with Leonard.

Palermo said he had little to do with Leonard after the promoter allegedly had failed to keep a promise regarding an agreement on a proposed title fight.

Father of Three, Age 33 Still Running 9.6 '100'

ATLANTA, (AP)—If you don't think Douglas L. Fowlkes is an unusual fellow, suppose you start listing all the people you know who are 33 years old and can run 100 yards in 9.6 seconds.

Buddy Fowlkes, 33, father of three young sprinters, full-time paint contractor and youth worker, did it last week in the Florida AAU meet when he took six young members of his Atlanta Striders team to Gainsville and beat the University of Florida and Florida Freshmen track teams.

Next week the former Georgia Tech dash man, hurdler and jumper will attempt to match his amazing 9.5 performance of a year ago in the Georgia AAU meet.

* * *

FOWLKES WON the Southeastern conference 100-yard dash 14 years ago. He also won the 220 and low hurdles, and he finished third in the broad jump for 18 points at the start of a four-year college career that was to see him amass 50 points in SEC meets, an all-time conference record.

The remarkable Fowlkes never stopped running after leaving Tech.

"I don't dare stop," he explained. "Not if I want to keep running in meets. At my age especially, you have to keep at it all the time."

Fowlkes says he runs at least an hour a day, five or six days a week.

* * *

"IM IN training for sprinting each year from January through August. Starting in September I work with weights through December. That doesn't leave much time for loafing."

"Before I started using weights, my best time in the 100 was 9.6 while in college, and I had never been able to do better than 9.7 afterwards. Then I did 9.5 last year in the State AAU.

"Weights are wonderful for conditioning," Fowlkes declared. He said he uses them to build his leg muscles and the muscles of his upper body.

Fowlkes' only concession to time has been withdrawal from competition in hte hurdles and broad jump.

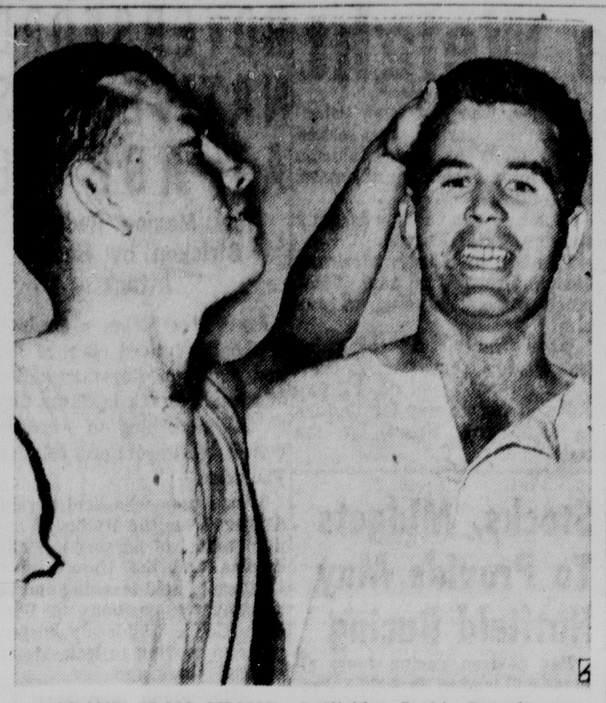

"At my age, it's better to specialize. An injury now would shelve me, I'm afraid, so I'll just stick to the sprints for as long as I can," he explained.

The young Fowlkes, all boys, are 10, 8 and 5.

"I drag them down to work out with me a lot in the Spring and Summer months. I really believe the youngest boy will be a sprinter. He is showing some good form already," Fowlkes, the parent, observed with some pride.

Will papa be able to outrun the youngster when he's ready for college?

GRAND SLAM CHAMP—Outfielder Jackie Brandt rumples hair of Jim Gentile in St. Paul-Minneapolis dressing room after the big first baseman hit two grand slam homers to lead the Orioles to a 13-5 win over Minnesota Twins. Next day Gentile, who doesn't play against left-handers, sat on the bench as the Orioles lost, 10-6.

Hatfield Rally Entry Deadline Set Next Monday

Deadline for entering the road rally sponsored by the Hatfield Junior Chamber of Commerce is May 15. The annual all-night event will be held May 20, starting at 7 o'clock.

There will be duplicate prizes for drivers and navigators in both classes.

Starting point for the 300-mile nocturnal run is the A. M. Kulp School on Route 463, near Hatfield. Following the run, breakfast will be served to all participants.

All entries should be submitted to Albert R. Powell, Chalfont RD 1, chairman of the event. Assisting with the road rally operation is Donald I. Fox, of the Buckingham Sports Car club.

Chattanooga Net Coach Has Trio Of High-Ranked Junior Champions

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A baldish fellow named Jerry Evert has the comforting prospect of sending three stars to the world tennis wars within the next 10 years.

Evert, Chattanooga tennis professional, coaches three of the youngsters whom the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association has ranked at or near the top — a record few tennis coaches can match.

Zan Guerry is ranked No. 1 for boys' 11 years old and under; Chris Brown is No. 4 in boys' 15-under, and Cindy Kemp, a cute brunette, is No. 5 for girls' 15 and under.

* * *

"It's so early to predict," Evert says, "but if I were forced to pick a Davis or Wrightman Cup squad for 1970, I would have to include these three fine youngsters."

Analyzing their play, at this stage, Evert says:

"Zan hasn't reached his peak of speed, but he is smart on the court. I can teach him a few tricks, but the fact that he knows when to use these tricks is what makes him what he is. His forehand is his strongest point. Older boys can take advantage of his backhand, but not the 11-year-olds.

"Chris could go all the way, just as any of the three could. His main forte is his ability to concentrate, his general athletic ability and his determination. He tends to be a little too mechanical and this may be a hindrance on grass but it's probably an asset on clay. Playing on fast surfaces will speed up his reactions."

"Cindy has a graceful game but she sometimes forgets to concentrate. If she improves this, she could be a real top player. And she should never let her losses discourage her. Her game has fluidity and grace, that is her strong point, and she can hit all the shots. She is fast and well coordinated."

Cofer KOs Lynch In 3d at Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Cofer won the most important fight of his career Thursday night with a third-round knockout of Billy Lynch in the feature eight-round welterweight bout at the Cambria. Lynch hadn't lost a bout in six years.

The knockout punch, a right cross to the jaw, came at 2:51 of the round. It was a big surprise. Lynch, at 147, five pounds less than Cofer, had controlled the fight until then.

The Hartford, Conn., fighter was ahead on all three score cards and was giving Cofer, a Philadelphian a good boxing lesson.

Cofer, who has a 22-1-2 record, had been promised a Nationally televised fight with either Benny (Kid) Paret or Luis Rodriquez, if he won this one. He's 23.

Lynch, who is 25, has a 45-4 record.

Brabham Poses Real '500' Threat

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP)—Jack Brabham, the World's road racing champion from Australia, is tuning up with Transatlantic jet hops for his crack at the 500-mile Memorial race.

The handsome Aussie's speed — on and off the track — has caused veteran observers to rate him a real threat in the golden anniversary of the May 30 classic.

Then the 35-year-old driver jumped into a car and zipped to the airport under police escort to catch a commercial jet flight to New York and make connections for qualifying runs Thursday in the Monte Carlo Grand Prix at Monaco.

* * *

FROM MONACO, it's back here by jet Friday night in time to enter the first qualifying round at Indianapolis Saturday.

Brabham hopes to qualify his rear-engine Cooper-Climax quickly and catch a jet in time to race in Monaco Sunday.

After that, he'll return for more practice — or another qualifying attempt May 20 if Saturday's attempt doesn't succeed.

* * *

THE RACING veteran has been wheeling the green car around the 2½-mile track as if he had been doing it for years instead of only a few days. Brabham was a bit irked when track officials flagged him down for exceeding a temporary speed limit laid down because of water left near the racing surface by recent heavy rains.

"It's all yellow light, red light, green light around here, the champ snapped. "A fellow can't get a decent start without somebody flashing lights or waving flags."

The Australian said he's quite happy to be here trying to break American domination of the country's biggest auto race. He's now living in England.

Veteran speedway observers had expressed some doubt about Brabham's car before it arrived. The low-slung Cooper weighs only about 1000 pounds — 600 pounds less than most entries — an develops 252 horsepower, compared to around 400 for the other racers.

But Brabham has been making up for lack of speed on the straight stretches by turning the low-banked curves at about 140 mph — five miles an hour faster than most drivers dare try it.

APMAT TAKES YONKERS PACE

Aussie Horse's Late Bid Wins Good Time Event

YONKERS, N. Y., (AP) — Apmat of Australia moved away in the late stages and won the $62,800 Good Time pace at Yonkers raceway Thursday night.

It was the second consecutive victory for the Australian wonder horse, owned by Mrs. Veronica Anderson of Granville. A week ago, Apmat won the first of the three-race International series—the International pace.

The third in the series, the National championship pace, is scheduled next Thursday.

Apmat, driven by Bert Alley, first put away Tar Boy, owned by T. J. Zornow of Pittsford, N. Y., and then Bye Bye Byrd, owned by Rex Larkin of Chicago. He hit the wire in the mile and a quarter test by three-quarters of a length over the fast-closing False Step from New Zealand. Bye Bye Byrd, the 4-5 favorite, was third.

* * *

THE TIME, on a track deadened by early evening showers, was 2:34 4/5.

Apmat collected $31,400 and paid $13.20, $7.30 and $3.60. False Step, scratched from last week's race because of soreness, returned $8.20 and $4.20, and By Bye Byrd, only pacer ever to win more than a half million dollars, was $2.30 to show.

Alley switched strategy this week. In the International, he came from off the pace to beat Bye Bye Byrd by a neck at a mile and a half. In the Good Time, Alley sent Apmat to the front at the half mile, after Arania, another New Zealand pacer, had led for a quarter.

At the three-quarters, Tar Boy had forged to the front on the outside, but Apmat held off Tar Boy, and then pulled away in the stretch. False Step, which had been fourth on the outside for the last three-quarters, closed down the middle of the track to nose out Bye Bye Byrd for the place.

Behind the top three, the order was: Mr. Budlong fourth, Tar Boy fifth, O'Brien Hanover sixth, Caduceus seventh, Keen's Victorwin, eighth, Arania ninth and Culver Pick tenth.

Paul Pender Being Paid Handsomely As Co-Champion of Middleweights

LONDON (AP) — Paul Pender only holds a piece of the World middleweight boxing championship but he is making it pay off handsomely.

The clever New Englander will make his fourth title defense in London July 11 against Terry Downes, the British champion whom he stopped last Jan 14.

FOR HIS second bout with the scrappy, 25-year-old Downes, Pender has been guaranteed $86,240 (30,000 pounds) by Promoter Harry Levene of London. Levene, in formally announcing the fight Thursday, said Downes will collect about $28,000 on a percentage of the gate.

Levene said he expected a sellout of the 10,000 seats of the Wembley indoor stadium.

"To make it a paying proposition I'm going to charge up to 10 guineas ($29.40) for ringside seats," said Levene. "I have wrestled with these figures for a long time.

"Even if I get rid of all of the seats there will not be much in it for me except prestige and the chance of giving a London boy a World title fight in London."

Pender, a skilled boxer with a rapier-like left hand, handed Downes a fierce beating in their Jan. 14 title bout at Boston. He dropped the Briton in the first round and cut him so severely on the nose and above the right eye that he required 15 stitches. The bout was stopped in the seventh round.

Downes has won two fights since his loss to Pender and now has a 28-7 record. He is ranked fourth by Ring and the NBA. Pender, undefeated in 4½ years and winner of 14 straight, has a 39-5-2 record.

Moore Assures Writers He'll Make Weight

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK (AP)—Archie Moore assured boxing writers Thursday he would make the 175-pound limit for his light heavyweight title defense June 10 against Italy's Giulio Rinaldi.

The fighter who calls himself "The Mongoose" and who is 44 according to his count (47 according to his mother) spoke over the telephone from Nogales, Mexico, where he is boxing an exhibition Friday night.

A loudspeaker was hooked to the phone so that all could hear in the offices of the Garden's boxing branch.

* * *

"ARCHIE, YOU remember you had to get up at 5 o'clock and hit the road and still didn't make the weight until the seventh try for your fight with Yolande Pompey in London (1956), do you expect to do the same thing again?"

"That's why I got up at 4 o'clock today," said Archie. "I'm doing it early. Anyhow, the scales were wrong over there. I weigh 184 right now. I'm on my special diet . . . raw vegetables and lean meat."

"Tells us about Rinaldi and your first fight with him, (non-title last Oct. 29)," asked Fleischer.

"He is very much different from (Yvon) Durelle (his last defense in 1959.) He has more stamina than any man I fought outside Rocky Marciano. He has a good right hand and favors it."

* * *

"RINALDI SAID he took it easy in the early rounds last time, do you think he did that in respect for your talent and age?", another asked.

"He respected my old gray fist," said Archie.

"If he gets the decision over me I'll be the first to congratulate him. If I knock him out I'll be the first to render aid."

After the phone call was over, Jack (Doc) Kearns, Moore's manager, who had been listening at the Garden, was asked about plans to have Johnson stand by if Archie doesn't make the weight.

"They don't need any standby," said Kearns.

Turning to Larry Markson, boxing director, he said, "how much were you going to pay him?"

When Harry said the price was $5000, Kearns said, "I'll tell you what I will do. I'll pay Johnson $1000 a day for 10 days to spar with Moore for the fight."

How Came the Pittsburgh Pirates To Miss Out On Those Sadowskis

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Four Sadowski boys wore major league uniforms in training camps this Spring but the one who failed to open the big league season is the one with the best potential.

So says Ed Sadowski, a 30 year old catcher with the Los Angeles Angels. Being the oldest of the playing Sadowskis, Ed was asked to explain.

"Only three of us are brothers," Ed S began. "A lot of people get confused. In fact, a lot of baseball people are confused.

"Bob Sadowski, a rookie third baseman with Philadelphia, isn't related. Why he can't even talk Polish. In 1959 when I caught for Minneapolis he came up to bat for Omaha and I asked him 'how are things going?' in Polish.

* * *

"HE NEVER answered. I said something again and then he told me. I met his folks. They are fine people. His dad talks Polish well. They are St. Louis people. My brothers are all from Pittsburgh.

"My brother Bob spent the Spring with the Cardinals. He was with Memphis and Rochester last year and is only 23. After the season ended last year—I was with Boston and wound up in Spokane—I caught Bob in a sandlot park in Pittsburgh. He has a live arm.

"If he's going to pitch this year it will be in the Army. He's got to serve six months. Ronnie Kline, who was with the Cards this Spring and is with us now, tells me he looked good in Florida. I couldn't tell. The Angeles trained in California.

"Ted, who pitches for the Minnesota Twins, is 25. As a member of Washington's 1960 team he struck out Ted Williams and beat the Red Sox in Fenway Park. He's a 6-foot-3 right hander.

"I never saw him pitch last year. I banged a finger and was on the disabled list two months, then went to Spokane. When I went, Ted came up with Washington.

"He was going to quit but finished up well at Charleston I think he's a good relief man for three innings. He can make money.

"Both Bob and Ted are single. They were real good basketball players. They turned down college scholarships for baseball. I went to Carnegie Tech one year, am married and have one daughter.

"There were seven boys in the family. Leo was killed in service. John, 34, was the first to play baseball. He played one year and quit. Getting $125 a month—I think he was in the Giant organization—was tough with a wife, and a baby on the way. He and Chester work in a Pittsburgh steel mill making springs for missiles. Henry, the oldest of the brothers, is one of Pittsburgh's finest — a policeman.

"But Bob of the Cardinals looks like he'll be something. In 70 innings at Rochester last year he had a 2.70 earned run record. He tore an arm muscle but was fine after that."

The Bob Sadowski with the Phillies is 24, bats left-handed and has been playing only against right-handed pitching. He was with San Diego and Rochester last year. Bob Sadowski, the Cardinal pitcher, was also with Rochester last year. The non-relative infielder used the initials "RF" and the pitcher "R."

Braun, Deposed Knicks' Coach, May Rejoin NBA as Player With Celtics

BOSTON, (AP)—Carl Braun said Thursday he had received a "very satisfactory offer" to join the World Champion Boston Celtics and would consider returning to professional basketball as a player.

Braun, a veteran of 12 years in the National Basketball association, made the trip to Boston Thursday for a brief talk with Celtics' President Walter Brown and said he would give the club his decision Sunday in New York.

The eighth highest all-time scorer in NBA history, Braun, 33, did not have his contract renewed as coach of the New York Knickerbockers following the 1960-61 season.

Brown declined to name the salary offer but it was estimated at $15,000. Braun was made aware of the likelihood of additional playoff money, too, with a club that has made the playoff finals for eight straight years.

Brown said the idea was that of Coach Red Auerbach, currently hospitalized in Washington, D. C., for minor surgery.

The Celtics are looking for an experienced back court man to replace Bill Sharman, who has become general manager of the Los Angeles Jets of the new American Basketball league.

Philly Planners Knock Park Site

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — A Civic group said Thursday the proposed site for a new sports stadium is a poor one. It suggested three more centrally located sites.

The criticism came from the citizen's council on city planning in reports to Mayor Richardson Dilworth and City Council President James H. J. Tate.

The council said a new stadium should be either in center city or on its fringes, to attain its full revenue potential. The site now under consideration by the city is 175 acres in the Torresdale section of far Northeast Philadelphia.

The stadium would be used by the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team, and possibly by college and professional football teams.

The report by the council said the site now being considered would force major reliance on private transportation, and would create additional traffic problems.

Bearettes Grab 9-1 Win Over Coatesville

Boyertown softball team downed Coatesville to the tune of 9-1 Thursday afternoon on the winners field.

Many Oxenford limited the Coatesville lassies to three hits to gain the mound decision. The Bear attack was well distributed as eight of the starters got base hits.

Persistent Pair From Lebanon On Bill at 'Grove'

WILLIAMS GROVE — Resolute persistence typical of the Pennsylvania Dutch will be demonstrated by two Lebanon speedsters when they return for tomorrow night's modified stock car action on the Williams Grove Speedway.

Demonstrating the trait of folk from the heart of the Central Pennsylvania Dutch country from which they come, Dick Tobias and Leroy Felty are ready to roar back into action despite woes on last week's program which might have seen less stout-hearted and less determined lads turn in the tools of their chosen profession.

Winner of the season's first race on the oval on April 21, Felty was plagued with every type and variety of trouble as he gamely tried to make good in a bid to capture two in a row.

* * *

STARTING OUT to line up for his qualifying race, Felty missed out when his No. 77 left him high and dry by running out of fuel, according to Allen Wertz, former stock car pilot from Jonestown now serving as an official for the sanctioning Cumberland Valley Racing association.

Felty expertly threaded his way up through the thundering field, picking off his opposition one by one to move into third place on the tenth circuit of the grind. He was steadily moving up on the two leaders—Johnny Dubendorf, the eventual winner from Lewistown, and Frankie Thompson, of Shrewbury—when he was forced to the pits on the 20th lap when a rod snapped on his mount.

Pitt Baseball Team Sees 12th 'Rainout'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Pittsburgh's luckless Panthers were rained out of a college baseball game Thursday for the 12th time this season.

The Panthers have completed only four games this season, winning two and losing two. Their last game was May 5 when Sophomore Jim Sylvis pitched a no-hitter in a 1-0 victory over Clarion.

Their next (they hope) will be against West Virginia at Pittsburgh Friday.

Thursday's cancellation was the first for unbeaten Navy, which has won 18 straight this season to set a new academy record.

Head-on Crash Injures 3 Persons in Spring City

Three persons were injured and two cars were badly damaged in a head-on crash on South Wall street, Spring City, Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

Mrs. Albert Reppert and her daughter, Cynthia, 7, of Saylor's Mill road, Spring City RD 1, occupants of one car, were taken to Pottstown hospital in Friendship Community ambulance. Both men were treated and released.

William Silknitter, Elverson, driver of the other car, suffered a bruised chest and nose injury, but did not require immediate treatment.

Police Chief John Hanebury, Spring City, who investigated, said Mrs. Reppert was driving east on Wall street, and Silknitter was going west.

* * *

THE ACCIDENT happened in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Curtis James, 164 South Wall street, where Mrs. Reppert had intended to turn into the driveway to pick up the James' son, Bruce, to take him to junior choir practice at Royersford Church of the Brethren.

Chief Hanebury was aided in handling traffic, which was heavy at the time, by Blaine Lee, a fire policeman, and Calvin M. Adams, Spring City tax collector, who lives on Pikeland avenue at the Wall street intersection.

The front ends of both cars were basked in and both had to be towed away.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SOMEBODY ONCE REMARKED to Benjamin Franklin that the Constitution of the U.S. was a booby trap. "Where is all the happiness it is supposed to guarantee for us?" jeered the cynic.

Franklin smiled tolerantly and replied, "All that the Constitution of the United States guarantees, my friend, is the pursuit of happiness. You have to catch up with it yourself."

In Memoriam 3

MAUGER—In loving and everlasting memory of a dear husband and father Dr. Lee F. Mauger who passed away on May 12, 1954.

But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of one who once sat there.
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell,
The grief that is borne in silence,
For the one we loved so well.
Though he's been gone 7 years today,
To all it seems like yesterday.
A man so loved just never dies,

Dearly loved and sadly missed by
Wife HELEN and son

Spring Mount Man Returns From Europe

SPRING MOUNT — Mrs. Russell Fulmer, Main St., corr., Phone AT 7-7462. For Del., Charles Yerger, Phone AT 7-9790.

Alfred Panepinto of Spring Mount has just returned from a two week tour of several countries in Europe, to make a study of the use of plastics in the building industry for Sun Oil company.

Panepinto served as the architect on a team of four that also included a builder, a chemist and an engineer. The latter was S. C. Hollister, former dean of Cornell university school of engineering.

Countries visited included England, France, Italy and Germany. One stop was the trade fair at Milan, Italy, where six houses built of plastics were on display.

Similar houses and building materials and components of plastics were studied at Troisdorf, near Cologne, Germany, and St. Remy, near Paris, France. The later house was 100 percent plastic, including the structural frame.

The workmen were finishing pouring concrete on the bridge—one of two spanning Worden Road—the section collapsed, sending workers tumbling 20 feet into the wet concrete.

The bridge was to carry two lanes of traffic in one direction on the freeway running from Cleveland eastward into Lake County.
